Debt Limit Bill Is Sent To Johnson

$7 Billion Boost Certain To Be Signed by Friday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has sent to the White House for President Johnson's certain signature bill to raise the national debt limit on Saturday to $358 billion, highest ceiling in history.

The measure, which Johnson asked for and is certain to sign into law by Friday — when the current $336-billion temporary ceiling expires — would raise the limit another $7 billion to $363 billion on July 1, 1968.

In practical terms, the proposed over-all increase in the ceiling represents the amount of cash it would take to buy 9 million cars costing $3,000 each or more than 1.2 million homes priced at $22,000 each.

The Senate cleared the legislation to the White House late Tuesday on a 60-30 vote after an afternoon of debate in which administration forces narrowly beat off several amendments.

Had any of these been adopted, the bill would have been forced into conference with the House, causing uncertainty as to whether it could have gone to Johnson before Congress begins its 10-day July 4th recess Thursday.

The measure will bring an immediate $22-billion increase in the debt ceiling.

The temporary $336-billion limit expires Friday midnight. Without the bill, the ceiling would revert on Saturday to the permanent debt limit of $283 billion, established in 1959.

This would mean the government would be insolvent, since the actual debt will be an estimated $327 billion as of Saturday.

The full $80-billion increase in the permanent ceiling provided by the bill when the $363-billion limit goes into effect in mid-1969 is the second largest in history. During World War II, Congress voted an $85-billion hike.

The bill cleared Tuesday apparently marks the end, for at least a time, of the practice of passing successive temporary debt limit increases. Congress has acted on as many as three of these in one year.

Senate backers of the measure said it would give the Treasury some breathing room in financing the Vietnam war and also some margin to deal with contingencies in the year ahead.

In presenting its debt estimates to Congress, the Treasury assumed that the six per cent income tax surcharge asked by Johnson would be approved and also that Vietnam war spending would not increase radically.

But Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., floor manager for the bill, told his colleagues that both of these assumptions may turn out to be wrong.

The biggest challenge to the bill came from Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr., D-Va., who offered an amendment to hold the immediate increase in the ceiling to $348 billion. This lost 44 to 43. The Virginian then was defeated 44 to 42 on a proposal to knock out the later $7-billion increase in the ceiling.

Governors Don't See Eye To Eye

WEST YELLOWSTONE, Mont. (AP) — President Johnson's summit talks with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin have boosted his political stock at home, Democrats and Republicans attending the Western Governors Conference agree.

This unity of opinion between the 10 GOP and the two Democratic state executives shatters quickly, however, on how long this lift in Johnson's popularity will last in the polls will endure.

Democrats profess to see a climb in the polls as Johnson pursue world peace objective, one of which is to bring the Vietnam war to some sort of satisfactory end. Republicans say Kosygin's chilling public response to his New Jersey discussion with the President offers no improvement in East-West relations and may boom-erang against Johnson politically.

Colorado Gov. John A. Love, chairman of the Republican Governors' Association, voiced the general viewpoint of nine of his party colleagues when he said that as of now the summit talks have helped Johnson politically.

"Every American wants to avoid world nuclear destruction," Love said. "The President's discussions with Kosygin offer some hope in this direction. But if the people's expectations rise too high as a result of these talks, the actualities may be such as to react against the President politically."

GOP Gov. Stan Hathaway of Wyoming said that Kosygin's public assessment of the summit conversations offer little hope for Vietnam peace negotiations.

He added on an ABC radio broadcast: "If Johnson doesn't settle the Vietnam war before 1968, the confidence of the American people will be in the Republicans."

Democratic Govs. Calvin L. Rampton of Utah and John A. Burns of Hawaii retorted that the Republicans have no solutions for the Vietnam problem. They said, in effect, that the GOP has no other choice than to support the President's policies. There was some Republican agreement on this score.

GOP Gov. Tim Babcock of Montana, hosting the conference ending today, said he is behind the commander in chief because the country is at war. But he said the United States must develop a "win attitude."

"We are not having success in Vietnam" and this may be reflected in next year's election results, he said.

Soviet-Cuban Leaders Hold 'Frank Talk'

HAVANA (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and Prime Minister Fidel Castro have disagreed in their talks, the official Soviet news agency Tass indicated today.

Tass reported from Havana that the two leaders had "a frank exchange" of opinions Tuesday on a number of questions of mutual interest.

Use of the word "frank" in such announcements normally means disagreement. There was no mention of "identity of views" or any other phrasing indicating accord, although Tass called the talks "friendly."

Tass did not disclose subjects discussed, but the makeup of the Cuban delegation meeting with Kosygin indicated military matters were covered. Four of the nine top Cubans listed by Tass as participating in the talks were military leaders.

Year-Old Mystery Is Finally Solved

ROOSEVELT, Ariz. (AP)—A year-old mystery was solved Tuesday when the wreckage of a missing plane and the body of its pilot was pulled from Roosevelt Lake in central Arizona.

Gila County Sheriff Elton Jones said the body of Wayne Drummond, 46, of Mesa, was still strapped in one of the seats when the wreckage was hauled from about 20 feet of water.

Jones said the wreckage was some 600 feet from grapevine airport, indicating that the pilot may have been trying for an emergency landing at the dirt strip.

House Calls Postponement On Hard Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House today postponed for at least two weeks action on a proposed congressional redistricting bill that has caused widespread confusion on Capitol Hill.

The delay is intended to give members a chance to study the proposal. The compromise of Senate and House bills was worked out Monday and a vote had been scheduled for today.

The members got their first look at the language of the bill in the Congressional Record this morning and were supposed to vote on it a few hours later. After a hurried round of conferences it was agreed to put off any action until after a 10-day recess which starts Thursday.

"I think this is a more responsible way to legislate," said Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind. "There is great confusion about what this would do. Even the members of the conference committee seem to be in disagreement about it."

By its terms it provides that no state would be required to redistrict in accordance with the Supreme Court's one-man-one-vote mandate until after a federal census. The next regular census will be taken in 1970.

On many questions ranging unanswered through the House Tuesday was the effect the proposal would have on lower courts, which have been moving vigorously to enforce the Supreme Court ruling.

"If this means the courts shall do nothing until 1972," said Rep. John Conyers Jr., D-Mich., "then it amounts to a postponement of a constitutional right and Congress can't do that by simple statute."

"If it is just advisory and the courts can go ahead as they have, then it is meaningless," Conyers was the only House member of the conference committee to vote against the bill, which is a compromise of sorts between different measures passed by the House and Senate.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., was the only Senate conferee to dissent.

The original house bill provided that for the 1968 and 1970 elections, a variant of up to 30 per cent between the smallest and largest districts in each state would be all right, with the margin dropping to 10 per cent in 1972.

The Senate bill, adopted on the floor on Kennedy's motion, put the 10 per cent limit into effect at once—which would have meant reapportionment in 33 states before the 1968 elections.

Most House members expected a balance to be struck somewhere between 10 per cent and 30 per cent, but the conferees fixed 10 per cent as the acceptable variation in 1972 and said nothing else had to be done unless there was a census.

Democrats met informally with Conyers and other conferees Tuesday in an attempt to seek clarification, but persons who attended the meeting said confusion was rampant.

"I came out knowing less than when I went in—and that was nothing," said one member. Conyers hurriedly had letters printed for each House member expressing his concern and fear over the conference version of the bill. He said he hopes to raise enough questions during debate today to bring about its defeat.

"This is worse than either the House or Senate versions," he said.

Funds Released For $1.6 Million Cleveland Marina

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Funds for construction of a $1.6 million marina in Cleveland were released Tuesday by the State Controlling Board.

The Ohio Department of Natural Resources will provide $767,457 for the East 55th Street Marina project—the largest of its type in the state's history—while the city of Cleveland will contribute $840,747.

Construction is to begin July 15. Target date for completion is next May.

The initial construction program will include a protected small boat harbor and docking facilities for 276 boats.

Eventually it will have berths for 450 boats, a 500-car parking lot, boat repair and maintenance facilities, boat storage building and restaurant.

U.S., Soviets Plan Joint Atom Proposal

Tax Surcharge Consideration Faces Delay

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite prodding this week from two influential administration figures, Congress is unlikely to begin considering until late summer the income tax surcharge President Johnson proposed six months ago.

Chairman William McClesney Martin Jr. of the Federal Reserve Board renewed Monday the call for a surcharge, saying he would support a steeper increase than the proposed six per cent if needed to combat inflation.

Then on Tuesday Chairman Gardner Ackley of Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers again urged congressional consideration of the surcharge, saying no figure lower than six per cent would do the job.

But the congressional timetable appears to rule out hearings at least until August, even if Johnson were to send to Capitol Hill legislation spelling out his tax proposals—which he has not done.

There were indications Johnson, who originally asked for an increase effective Saturday, might be happy to have one six months later.

The House Ways and Means Committee, where all tax legislation must originate, is nowhere near finished with its consideration of a complex bill to amend the Social Security System and related programs such as Medicare. The House begins a 10-day July 4 recess Thursday, as does the Senate.

Committee Chairman Wilbur D. Mill, D-Ark., has said the committee may have a Social Security bill ready in July, but other committee members speculate.

New Cardinals Will Appear In Ceremony

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The richly frescoed Sistine Chapel was readied today for the first public appearance in their bright scarlet robes of 24 new cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church.

In a simplified consistory ceremony tonight, Pope Paul VI was to place the red cardinal's biretta on the head of each prelate as he knelt below Michelangelo's famous murals.

Three other princes of the church created by the Pope on Monday — the papal nuncios to Spain, Portugal and Italy — got their red hats from the chiefs of state in the Catholic countries in which they are stationed.

Only relatives and a few friends of each new cardinal were invited to the ceremony at which the prelates were to meet the Pope for the first time as cardinals.

Monday's secret consistory in a Vatican hall had included only the Pope and 35 senior cardinals, who approved the Pope's choices.

Tonight the pontiff, with five senior cardinals seated near him beneath Michelangelo's "Last Judgment," is to place the smaller, commonly used biretta on each head, while saying: "In praise of the omnipotent God and for the beauty of the Apostolic See, receive the red biretta, sign of the great dignity of the cardinalate."

Dr. Kraus, research professor of chemistry emeritus at Brown University, developed oxygen rebreathing equipment for Navy aircraft and served as a consultant to the Manhattan Project for development of the atom bomb during World War II.

Communist Troop Buildups Bombed

SAIGON (AP) — B52 bombers unloaded a rain of bombs today on Communist positions in two provinces where U.S. ground troops face threatening enemy buildups.

The bombers plastered 180,000 pounds of bombs on Red infiltration routes in Quang Tri Province adjoining the demilitarized zone—where a heavy Red rocket and mortar barrage killed nine Marines and wounded 125 Tuesday—and unleashed a similar attack in the highlands of Kontum Province where infiltrating Red troops recently decimated an American paratroop company.

Ground fighting reported by U.S. military headquarters also centered in the DMZ and highland areas.

A sweeping force of more than 300 U.S. paratroops from the 173rd Airborne Brigade jumped about 50 patrolling Reds early today. In a sharp skirmish in the jungles of Kontum Province the paratroopers killed six North Vietnamese and took one prisoner. Two Americans were killed and eight wounded.

In Quang Tri, around the isolated western flank outpost of Khe Sanh, U.S. Marines kept up continual patrols to thwart Communist assaults. Ten Marines were killed in clashes Tuesday and 27 were wounded, but the Leathernecks said they killed 28 North Vietnamese regulars.

South Vietnamese military headquarters also reported a series of clashes with guerrillas in the Mekong Delta in which 49 of the enemy were killed. In one savage fight Tuesday night and Wednesday morning, a band of about 20 militiamen suffered heavy losses while beating off a five-hour attack with the aid of circling American gunships that raked the attacking Reds with their fire.

North of Saigon, the toll from a mine that demolished a bus Tuesday rose to 40 South Vietnamese civilians killed as U.S. troops searching at dawn found 17 more bodies. Ten others were wounded in the explosion. The number killed was one of the highest in a single terrorist attack in the war.

Despite cloudy weather over most of North Vietnam, American pilots flew 126 strike missions Tuesday with no reported losses. Two Communist MIGs were sighted but made no effort to fight.

The major effort was again directed at the northeast and northwest rail lines connecting Hanoi to Red China.

Air Force jets reported bombing and shooting up 49 rail cars of various types and blasting one puffing locomotive in a yard 39 miles northwest of Hanoi.

Three strikes were made against the northwest rail line up the Red River Valley and four raids went against the northeast line, the shorter, which carries about a quarter of the supplies and freight entering North Vietnam.

Navy pilots from carriers in the South China Sea made nine heavy raids on the Nam Dinh area southeast of Hanoi.

U.S. headquarters reported that part of an ammunition dump in Quang Ngai Province blew up this morning, wounding two American soldiers. A white phosphorus shell somehow exploded and the blistering heat set off more ammunition, but the spokesman said the overall damage to the dump was light.

No Ohio Song Now in Sight

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The end appears to have come to another effort by the Ohio Legislature to adopt an official state song.

But the lawmakers are asking someone else to do the job. Members of the House adopted Tuesday by a single vote (45-44) a resolution which calls on the newly created Ohio Arts Council to recommend a song to the 1969 General Assembly.

Rep. Gordon Scherer R-7 Cincinnati sponsored the resolution after his Interstate Cooperation Committee failed to agree on a song.

Miniskirts Don't Mix With Fiber-Glass Seats

LONDON AP — Miniskirted girls riding London subways are finding new seats unbearable on their bare skin.

"It's a terrible shock to sit down on one of those seats early in the morning," explained one girl.

Railway Review, official magazine of the National Union of Railwaymen, says "London Transport is receiving a number of complaints" about fiber-glass seats on the Inner Circle line.

The London subway is operated by London Transport. A spokesman said: "We shall bear in mind the view of the miniskirted young ladies. Of course, we have some people who like these seats better than the old ones. The fiber-glass

Nuclear Treaty Announced After Meeting

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union plan to submit to the Geneva Disarmament Conference shortly a joint proposal for a treaty to curb the spread of nuclear weapons.

When the treaty draft goes before the 17-nation disarmament group, probably within the next few days, it may still be minus a provision for safe guards against violations.

U.S.-Soviet negotiators have been unable for months to agree on the safeguards, or inspection, clause. But U.S. diplomats are hopeful of reaching Big Two accord on this soon after submitting the proposed treaty at Geneva, if not by then.

This became known today following a dinner meeting Tuesday night between Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko at the headquarters of the Soviet U.N. mission.

The Rusk-Gromyko session, a followup to the conferences last weekend between President Johnson and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, apparently finished the last phase of the summitry of Glassboro, N.J., the site of the Johnson-Kosygin parleys.

Rusk had no further appointments with Gromyko scheduled. He arranged to return to Washington to report to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the Cabinet today and to the House Foreign Affairs Committee Thursday.

Gromyko, who arrived June 17 with Kosygin, was reported considering returning to Moscow around the end of the week if the U.N. General Assembly decides to recess its emergency session on the Middle East. Kosygin went to Havana Monday.

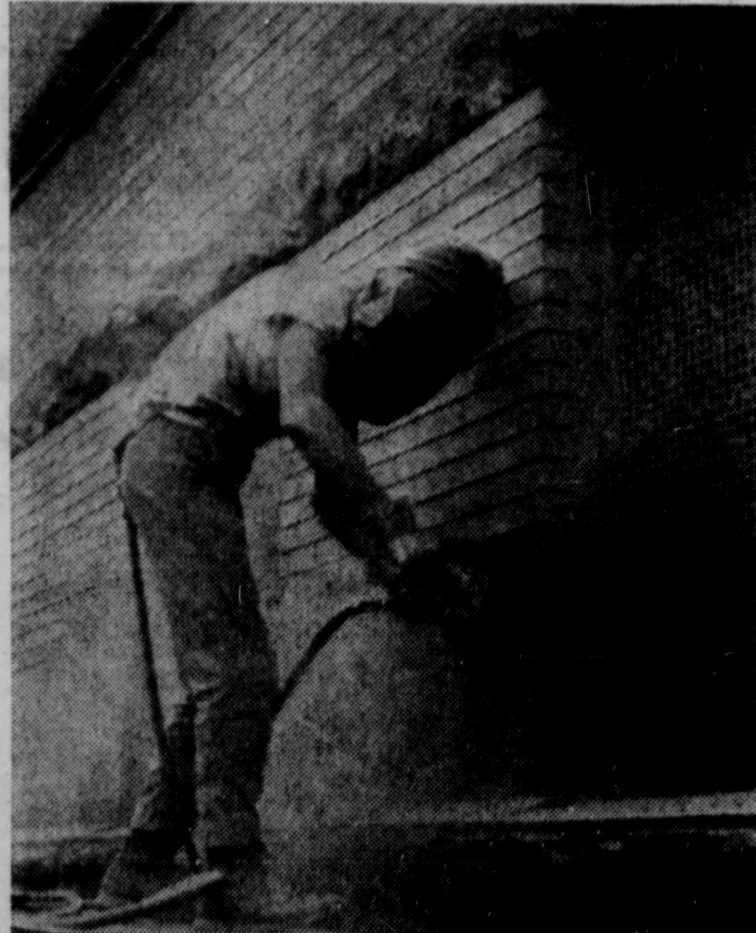

The Middle East crisis and the proposed nuclear nonproliferation treaty were the major topics discussed by Rusk and Gromyko, who met for more than three hours. U.S. sources said Vietnam was not discussed because the deep U.S.-Soviet difference on this topic had been amply aired in previous talks.

While Rusk told newsmen "I cannot report there was a great deal of progress" on the Middle East.

Communist Troop Buildups Bombed

SAIGON (AP) — B-52 bombers unloaded a rain of bombs today on Communist positions in two provinces where U.S. ground troops face threatening enemy buildups.

The bombers plastered 180,000 pounds of bombs on Red infiltration routes in Quang Tri Province adjoining the demilitarized zone—where a heavy Red rocket and mortar barrage killed nine Marines and wounded 123 Tuesday—and unleashed a similar attack in the highlands of Kontum Province where infiltrating Red troops recently decimated an American paratroop company.

Ground fighting reported by U.S. military headquarters also centered in the DMZ and highland areas.

A sweeping force of more than 300 U.S. paratroops from the 173rd Airborne Brigade jumped about 50 patrolling Reds early today. In a sharp skirmish in the jungles of Kontum Province the paratroopers killed six North Vietnamese and took one prisoner. Two Americans were killed and eight wounded.

In Quang Tri, around the isolated western flank outpost of Khe Sanh, U.S. Marines kept up continual patrols to thwart Communist assaults. Ten Marines were killed in clashes Tuesday and 27 were wounded, but the Leathernecks said they killed 28 North Vietnamese regulars.

South Vietnamese military headquarters also reported a series of clashes with guerrillas in the Mekong Delta in which 49 of the enemy were killed. In one savage fight Tuesday night and Wednesday morning, a band of about 20 militiamen suffered heavy losses while beating off a five-hour attack with the aid of circling American gunships that raked the attacking Reds with their fire.

North of Saigon, the toll from a mine that demolished a bus Tuesday rose to 40 South Vietnamese civilians killed as U.S. troops searching at dawn found 17 more bodies. Ten others were wounded in the explosion. The number killed was one of the highest in a single terrorist attack in the war.

Despite cloudy weather over most of North Vietnam, American pilots flew 126 strike missions Tuesday with no reported losses. Two Communist MIG-17s were sighted but made no effort to fight.

The major effort was again directed at the northeast and northwest rail lines connecting Hanoi to Red China.

Air Force jets reported bombing and shooting up 49 rail cars of various types and blasting one puffing locomotive in a yard 39 miles northwest of Hanoi.

Three strikes were made against the northwest rail line up the Red River Valley and four raids went against the northeast line, the shorter, which carries about a quarter of the supplies and freight entering North Vietnam.

Navy pilots from carriers in the South China Sea made nine heavy raids on the Nam Dinh area southeast of Hanoi.

U.S. headquarters reported that part of an ammunition dump in Quang Ngai Province blew up this morning, wounding two American soldiers. A white phosphorous shell somehow exploded and the blistering heat set off more ammunition, but the spokesman said the over-all damage to the dump was light.

No Ohio Song Now in Sight

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The end appears to have come to another effort by the Ohio Legislature to adopt an official state song.

But the lawmakers are asking someone else to do the job. Members of the House adopted Tuesday by a single vote (45-44) a resolution which calls on the newly created Ohio Arts Council to recommend a song to the 1969 General Assembly.

Rep. Gordon Scherer R 71 Cincinnati sponsored the resolution after his Interstate Cooperation Committee failed to agree on a song.

Miniskirts Don't Mix With Fiber-Glass Seats

LONDON AP — Miniskirted girls riding London subways are finding new seats unbearable on their bare skin.

"It's a terrible shock to sit down on one of those seats early in the morning," explained one girl.

Railway Review, official magazine of the National Union of Railwaymen, says "London Transport is receiving a number of complaints" about fiber-glass seats on the Inner Circle line.

The London subway is operated by London Transport. A spokesman said: "We shall bear in mind the view of the miniskirted young ladies. Of course, we have some people who like these seats better than the old ones. The fiber-glass

Nuclear Treaty Announced After Meeting

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union plan to submit to the Geneva Disarmament Conference shortly a joint proposal for a treaty to curb the spread of nuclear weapons.

When the treaty draft goes before the 17-nation disarmament group, probably within the next few days, it may still be minus a provision for safe guards against violations.

U.S.-Soviet negotiators have been unable for months to agree on the safeguards, or inspection, clause. But U.S. diplomats are hopeful of reaching Big Two accord on this soon after submitting the proposed treaty at Geneva, if not by then.

This became known today following a dinner meeting Tuesday night between Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko at the headquarters of the Soviet U.N. mission.

The Rusk-Gromyko session, a follow-up to the conferences last weekend between President Johnson and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, apparently finished the last phase of the summitry of Glassboro, N.J., the site of the Johnson-Kosygin parleys.

Rusk had no further appointments with Gromyko scheduled. He arranged to return to Washington to report to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the Cabinet today and to the House Foreign Affairs Committee Thursday.

Gromyko, who arrived June 17 with Kosygin, was reported considering returning to Moscow around the end of the week if the U.N. General Assembly decides to recess its emergency session on the Middle East. Kosygin went to Havana Monday.

The Middle East crisis and the proposed nuclear nonproliferation treaty were the major topics discussed by Rusk and Gromyko, who met for more than three hours. U.S. sources said Vietnam was not discussed because the deep U.S.-Soviet difference on this topic had been amply aired in previous talks.

While Rusk told newsmen "I cannot report there was a great deal of progress" on the Middle East.

LBJ Heaps Scorn on All Criticism of His Program

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — President Johnson, ad libbing freely and drawing thunderous applause from a convention of youthful businessmen, has strongly defended his policies and crisply criticized his critics.

In a speech that had the ring of campaign oratory, the President assailed the "cussers and doubters" and asked support from "doers and builders" to carry out his policies at home and in Vietnam.

Johnson disputed claims by antiwar critics that war costs are curtailing sharply antipov-erty programs.

He told 10,000 Junior Chamber of Commerce members and their wives that when he became president the United States was in Vietnam but had no antipov-erty program.

Despite the war, said Johnson, antipov-erty funds have been hiked every year "without tucking tail and running in Vietnam."

Often interrupted by cheers and applause, the President drew his biggest ovation when he told his listeners to tell their friends and families back home that: "It is not essential, it is not required for them to tear our country down and our flag up in order to lift them up."

That statement, couched in sarcastic tones, came after the President said 94 per cent of the world's people would like to exchange places with Americans—who despite comprising only 6 per cent of the world's population, he noted have 50 per cent of its wealth.

Johnson only briefly mentioned his weekend summit meetings with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, saying:

"Though our differences are many and though they run very deep, we know that in the world's interest it was important that we understand, if we could, the motivations as well as the commitments of each other. We religiously, dedicatedly, and determinedly worked at that assignment for two days."

"That is why we met—to bring about better understandings, and to discuss respective goals and commitments, we came there.

"When we left I believe we had achieved that."

Hussein Will Ask Johnson To Aid Jordan

Kind of Help U.S. Can Offer Seems Uncertain

WASHINGTON (AP) — King Hussein of Jordan is expected to ask President Johnson to help bail out his battered nation—No. 1 loser in the Arab-Israeli war—when the two talk at the White House today.

U.S. officials said Hussein's expected appeal for help will meet with sympathy from the President. But they said Israeli occupation of some of Jordan's most valuable territory makes unclear what action the United States could take.

Behind administration sympathy for Hussein and his nation is the king's long-time stance as the most pro-Western head of state in the Arab world. There also is recognition that Jordan needs speedy assistance in easing the burden of daily increasing numbers of refugees from land now held by the Israelis.

Officials note, however, that the refugee problem is international in scope and has been handled most effectively by the U.N. Relief and Work Agency, financed to a great extent by the United States.

Hussein, officials feel, does not come to Washington to speak for all the Arabs. He accomplished this part of his mission when he addressed the U.N. General Assembly Monday.

On the main problem, how to settle the Arab-Israeli dispute and prevent new hostilities, there is little Johnson and Hussein can do immediately, officials believe.

Hussein must be very careful not to detach himself to the slightest degree from the rigid Arab policy line, American experts say. His grandfather, King Abdallah, was assassinated in 1948 when it was only rumored that he was ready to negotiate peace with Israel.

Hussein, then a young man, was at his grandfather's side and saw the assassination. But Hussein has a prime opportunity to talk about bilateral issues such as economic and military aid to his country.

All aid to belligerent countries was suspended, or put in the "under review" category—a State Department euphemism for suspension—when the war broke out.

Last Saturday the State Department announced resumption of aid to countries which did not break diplomatic relations with the United States. Jordan is one of them.

A major problem, officials said, is that most U.S. aid projects in Jordan are in the Israeli-occupied territory west of the Jordan River.

STP Trip Longer Than with LSD?

WASHINGTON (AP) — An official of the Food and Drug Administration says his agency is investigating the reported use of a new drug called STP which supposedly is more powerful than LSD.

The report came from John Finlator, director of the FDA's drug abuse control bureau, in testimony Tuesday before a House Government Operations subcommittee.

Finlator also indicated the criminal organization known as Cosa Nostra is becoming involved in the distribution of LSD, the so-called mind-expanding drug.

Finlator said that the only word his agency has on STP consists of rumors that the drug is being circulated on the West Coast and in New York.

Council OKs Ridgewood Section 6

Plans for a new section of the Ridgewood Subdivision in the northeastern part of Circleville were approved Tuesday night at an adjourned meeting of City Council.

The plat, to be known as Section 6 of the Ridgewood Subdivision, will be developed by Ernest G. Fritzsche and Co., of Columbus.

The 10-lot plat is bounded on the east by Edgewood Drive, on the north by Raymond Rader's property, on the west by Donald Watts' property and on the south by Section 5 of the Ridgewood Subdivision.

A new street, to be known as Mower Road, will be included in the plat to provide access to Edgewood Drive. All of the lots, varying in size, will front on Mower Road.

THE Fritzsche firm has previously developed Sections 3, 4 and 5 of the Ridgewood Subdivision. The first two sections were developed by Raymond Rader.

The seven Council members voted approval for the plat after the second reading of the ordinance concerning it. The normal three-reading rule was suspended by vote.

The ordinance had its first reading at a Council meeting June 20. That meeting was adjourned until Tuesday.

No other business was transacted at Tuesday's session at which Harold W. Clifton, president of council, presided.

Court Again Orders Naples To Be Freed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—For the second time in the last two years, U. S. District Court today ordered the release of Joseph (Joey) Naples, Youngstown rackets figure, in habeas corpus proceedings.

The action was taken by Judge Joseph P. Kinneary, who declared the writ "is meritorious" and should be issued.

The judge ordered that Naples be remanded to Common Pleas Court of Mahoning County for "further proceedings as may be deemed necessary and proper in accordance with law."

Kinneary said that upon filing of a $5,000 bond, Naples should be released from custody.

Kinneary said that if no further action be taken in the case by the state or county within 60 days, Naples' release shall be final and unconditional and the bond cancelled.

Naples was serving 1 - 10 years in Ohio Penitentiary on conviction of receiving stolen property when he was released by habeas corpus action in December, 1964 by then Federal Judge Mel Underwood.

An appeals court decision reversing the writ and the refusal of the U. S. Supreme Court to review the case returned Naples to prison last May 3.

Naples' attorney Dan Duffey asked for a new habeas corpus writ. It was on the latter writ that Kinneary acted today.

Ohio House Group Favors Broadened Abortion Law

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio House Health and Welfare Committee today recommended passage of a bill to broaden Ohio abortion laws. The vote was 8-6.

The measure by Rep. John A. Galbraith R-76 Maumee, Lucas would permit abortion upon certification of three doctors that a mother or child is in mental or physical danger.

The House Judiciary Committee virtually killed a proposal to abolish capital punishment by voting indefinite postponement.

Nuclear Tready...

East issue, other American sources said:

—There is some agreement between the U.S. and Soviet positions despite their differences.

Both big powers have long recognized Israel's existence as a state, in contrast to the Arab view. The Kremlin may therefore agree that there should be a state of peace rather than war between the Arabs and Israelis.

The Soviets also probably favor economic development for the area, though it would be difficult to reach an accord on limiting arms shipments to the Middle East.

Moscow probably would not stand in the way of unrestricted passage for all ships in the Middle East waterways or of programs to help Arab refugees.

But Kosygin and Gromyko stood fast on Soviet demands for withdrawal of Israeli forces to prewar boundaries before a settlement can be negotiated. Since the United States favors linking a withdrawal with a settlement, the main argument is over the sequence of moves toward a solution.

Recent hints of a softening of the Arab stand against any negotiations before an Israeli troop pullback are, in the U.S. view, improving chances for a settlement.

On the nonproliferation treaty, both of the nuclear superpowers have long pursued parallel policies against giving nuclear weapons to nations that don't have them. Johnson and Kosygin agreed on the importance of such a pact, whose wording the Big Two have been negotiating for months.

The difficulty over the inspection provision is less between the Soviet Union and the United States than between the Western European powers and the Soviets, the U.S. sources said.

The West European Common Market countries have their own system under Euratom, their joint atomic energy agency, to insure that nuclear fuel is not diverted to military use. They do not want to give up their safeguards system, while Moscow says European atomic plants along with those elsewhere should come under the inspection system of the International Atomic Energy Agency.

The nonproliferation treaty would bar non-nuclear signers forever from acquiring atomic arms—and the have-not nations at the Geneva meeting have been pressing the conference cochairmen, the United States and the Soviet Union, for their proposed wording.

On another disarmament project to limit the U. S. Soviet antimissile and offensive missile races, Kosygin reportedly agreed to discussions but would not say when U.S. sources consider the issue still open.

LBJ Appeals To Israeli

Warns Against Jerusalem Grab

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House made a public appeal to Israel today to avoid any quick annexation of the old section of Jerusalem seized from Jordan in the Middle East war.

"The President is confident that the wisdom and good judgment of those now in control of Jerusalem will prevent any such action," the statement said.

The pronouncement came on the heels of word from Jerusalem that the Israelis, in a step toward annexation, had unified municipal services between the sectors of the city.

Assistant press secretary Tom Johnson read the statement which said Johnson "assumes that before any unilateral action is taken on the status of Jerusalem there will be appropriate consultation with religious leaders and others who are deeply concerned."

The city, holy to adherents of three religious faiths, has been a center of conflict repeatedly during the last 20 years, the statement said.

"Men of all religions will agree that we must now do better," it said. "The world must find an answer that is fair and recognized to be fair. That could not be achieved by hasty, unilateral action."

Tax Surcharge

ulate about dates like Aug. 15. Another week or 10 days would be required for House consideration and passage, and the committee would not take up another major measure during this period.

Hearings on a tax increase, if any are held, are likely to be prolonged. Although the administration would like to confine the issue to a simple yes or no on an increase in personal and corporate income taxes, spokesmen for a variety of view will be pressing for a chance to voice them.

Ackley, appearing Tuesday before the Senate-House Economic Committee, ran into demands that the administration consider closing loopholes in present tax laws to increase its revenue, rather than seeking an across the board raise.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., committee chairman, said it would be refreshing if the administration proposed reduction in the oil depletion allowance, a perennial target of tax change advocates, but one which has withstood all attacks.

Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., said the imposition of capital gains taxes on estates and tightening of tax-exempt provisions on the yield of municipal bonds would yield $3.5 billion a year. The remainder of the administration goal of $5 billion could be achieved readily by other forms of tightening and without a general increase, he said.

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan and GOP congressmen have said they will not support a tax increase unless the budget first has been cut substantially.

The new program would provide funds for personnel to work with families in nursing and medical care, home management, food and nutrition and child development as well as in other areas.

Families not eligible for other types of assistance would be the chief beneficiaries from the program sponsored by the Office of Economic Opportunity.

The expenditure of the project funds totaling $73,457.60 has not yet been approved by the OEO, but officials expect approval very soon so the program can be implemented.

THE NEW program was approved after a similar plan was rejected recently. The old program, calling for 80 per cent federal financing, was criticized by officials who thought it might overlap other agencies giving assistance.

Under the accepted program, officials said they will be able to determine what kind of assistance is being received by all families in the county. This should prevent families from receiving aid from more than one agency, they believe.

Of the funds that would be budgeted for the program, $30,000 would be spent for training 10 nurses' aides who would go into the homes of families to help them improve their health hygiene.

Two registered nurses, one full-time and another part-time, are included in the program and $7,500 would be budgeted for them. A project coordinator would receive $5,800 and a secretary $3,500.

Federal officials selected Pickaway County as one of three counties to participate in the new program. Future projects of this type will probably be undertaken if this one succeeds, officials said.

Bingo Squabble Ends with Acid Thrown in Face

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Ohio (AP)—A Stark County woman accused of throwing acid in the face of another woman after a bingo game at Immaculate Conception Church in nearby Denison was held in Tuscarawas County Jail here today in lieu of $2,000 bond. The incident occurred Monday night.

Charged with throwing corrosive acid with intent to maim was Mrs. Margie Davis, 36, of Navarre. She is accused of throwing what police said was hydrochloric acid at Mrs. Alice Meechan, mother of a Denison patrolman.

Both women were treated for acid burns, authorities said. Mrs. Davis was burned, police said, when Mrs. Meechan deflected some of the acid as she raised her hands to protect herself.

Police said Mrs. Davis won the $500 bingo jackpot and was approached after the game by Mrs. Meechan, who asked for her address and telephone number. Mrs. Meechan accused Mrs. Davis of using her bingo cards, police said.

Despite the war, said Johnson, antipov-erty funds have been hiked every year "without tucking tail and running in Vietnam."

Often interrupted by cheers and applause, the President drew his biggest ovation when he told his listeners to tell their friends and families back home that "It is not essential, it is not required for them to tear our country down and our flag up in order to lift them up."

That statement, couched in sarcastic tones, came after the President said 94 per cent of the world's people would like to exchange places with Americans—who despite comprising only 6 per cent of the world's population, he noted have 50 per cent of its wealth.

Johnson only briefly mentioned his weekend summit meetings with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, saying:

"Though our differences are many and though they run very deep, we know that in the world's interest it was important that we understand, if we could, the motivations as well as the commitments of each other. We religiously, dedicatedly, and determinedly worked at that assignment for two days."

"That is why we met—to bring about better understandings, and to discuss respective goals and commitments, we came there."

"When we left I believe we had achieved that."

Hussein Will Ask Johnson To Aid Jordan

Kind of Help U.S. Can Offer Seems Uncertain

WASHINGTON (AP) — King Hussein of Jordan is expected to ask President Johnson to help bail out his battered nation—No. 1 loser in the Arab-Israeli war—when the two talk at the White House today.

U.S. officials said Hussein's expected appeal for help will meet with sympathy from the President. But they said Israeli occupation of some of Jordan's most valuable territory makes unclear what action the United States could take.

Behind administration sympathy for Hussein and his nation is the king's long-time stance as the most pro-Western head of state in the Arab world. There also is recognition that Jordan needs speedy assistance in easing the burden of daily increasing numbers of refugees from land now held by the Israelis.

Officials note, however, that the refugee problem is international in scope and has been handled most effectively by the U.N. Relief and Work Agency, financed to a great extent by the United States.

Hussein, officials feel, does not come to Washington to speak for all the Arabs. He accomplished this part of his mission when he addressed the U.N. General Assembly Monday.

On the main problem, how to settle the Arab-Israeli dispute and prevent new hostilities, there is little Johnson and Hussein can do immediately, officials believe.

Hussein must be very careful not to detach himself to the slightest degree from the rigid Arab policy line, American experts say. His grandfather, King Abdullah, was assassinated in 1948 when it was only rumored that he was ready to negotiate peace with Israel.

Hussein, then a young man, was at his grandfather's side and saw the assassination. But Hussein has a prime opportunity to talk about bilateral issues such as economic and military aid to his country.

All aid to belligerent countries was suspended, or put in the "under review" category—a State Department euphemism for suspension—when the war broke out.

Last Saturday the State Department announced resumption of aid to countries which did not break diplomatic relations with the United States, Jordan is one of them.

A major problem, officials said, is that most U.S. aid projects in Jordan are in the Israeli-occupied territory west of the Jordan River.

STP Trip Longer Than with LSD?

WASHINGTON (AP) — An official of the Food and Drug Administration says his agency is investigating the reported use of a new drug called STP which supposedly is more powerful than LSD.

The report came from John Finlator, director of the FDA's drug abuse control bureau, in testimony Tuesday before a House Government Operations subcommittee.

Finlator also indicated the criminal organization known as Cosa Nostra is becoming involved in the distribution of LSD, the so-called mind-expanding drug.

Finlator said that the only word his agency has on STP consists of rumors that the drug is being circulated on the West Coast and in New York.

Both women were treated for acid burns, authorities said. Mrs. Davis was burned, police said, when Mrs. Meehan deflected some of the acid as she raised her hands to protect herself.

Police said Mrs. Davis won the $500 bingo jackpot and was approached after the game by Mrs. Meehan, who asked for her address and telephone number. Mrs. Meehan accused Mrs. Davis of using her bingo cards, police said.

The distinction of being the world's southernmost municipality is debated between Argentina's Ushuaia (population 3,900) and Chile's Puerto Williams (population 350), eight miles farther south. Argentinians concede Puerto Williams the title "southernmost town," and claim that Ushuaia is the "southernmost city."

Council OKs Ridgewood Section 6

Plans for a new section of the Ridgewood Subdivision in the northeastern part of Circleville were approved Tuesday night at an adjourned meeting of City Council.

The plat, to be known as Section 6 of the Ridgewood Subdivision, will be developed by Ernest G. Fritzsche and Co., of Columbus.

The 10-lot plat is bounded on the east by Edgewood Drive, on the north by Raymond Rader's property, on the west by Donald Watts' property and on the south by Section 5 of the Ridgewood Subdivision.

A new street, to be known as Mower Road, will be included in the plat to provide access to Edgewood Drive. All of the lots, varying in size, will front on Mower Road.

THE Fritzsche firm has previously developed Sections 3, 4 and 5 of the Ridgewood Subdivision. The first two sections were developed by Raymond Rader.

The seven Council members voted approval for the plat after the second reading of the ordinance concerning it. The normal three-reading rule was suspended by vote.

The ordinance had its first reading at a Council meeting June 20. That meeting was adjourned until Tuesday.

No other business was transacted at Tuesday's session at which Harold W. Clifton, president of council, presided.

Court Again Orders Naples To Be Freed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—For the second time in the last two years, U. S. District Court today ordered the release of Joseph (Joey) Naples, Youngstown rackets figure, in habeas corpus proceedings.

The action was taken by Judge Joseph P. Kinneary, who declared the writ "is meritorious" and should be issued. The judge ordered that Naples be remanded to Common Pleas Court of Mahoning County for "further proceedings as may be deemed necessary and proper in accordance with law."

Kinneary said that upon filing of a $5,000 bond, Naples should be released from custody. Kinneary said that if no further action be taken in the case by the state or county within 60 days, Naples' release shall be final and unconditional and the bond cancelled.

Naples was serving 1 - 10 years in Ohio Penitentiary on conviction of receiving stolen property when he was released by habeas corpus action in December, 1964 by then Federal Judge Mel Underwood.

An appeals court decision reversing the writ and the refusal of the U. S. Supreme Court to review the case returned Naples to prison last May 3.

Naples' attorney Dan Duffey asked for a new habeas corpus writ. It was on the latter writ that Kinneary acted today.

Ohio House Group Favors Broadened Abortion Law

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio House Health and Welfare Committee today recommended passage of a bill to broaden Ohio abortion laws. The vote was 8-6.

The measure by Rep. John A. Galbraith R-76 Maumee, Lucas would permit abortion upon certification of three doctors that a mother or child is in mental or physical danger.

The House Judiciary Committee virtually killed a proposal to abolish capital punishment by voting indefinite postponement.

Nuclear Tready...

—There is some agreement between the U.S. and Soviet positions despite their differences. Both big powers have long recognized Israel's existence as a state, in contrast to the Arab view. The Kremlin may therefore agree that there should be a state of peace rather than war between the Arabs and Israelis.

The Soviets also probably favor economic development for the area, though it would be difficult to reach an accord on limiting arms shipments to the Middle East.

Moscow probably would not stand in the way of unrestricted passage for all ships in the Middle East waterways or of programs to help Arab refugees.

But Kosygin and Gromyko stood fast on Soviet demands for withdrawal of Israeli forces to prewar boundaries before a settlement can be negotiated. Since the United States favors linking a withdrawal with a settlement, the main argument is over the sequence of moves toward a solution.

Recent hints of a softening of the Arab stand against any negotiations before an Israeli troop pullback are, in the U.S. view, improving chances for a settlement.

On the nonproliferation treaty, both of the nuclear superpowers have long pursued parallel policies against giving nuclear weapons to nations that don't have them. Johnson and Kosygin agreed on the importance of such a pact, whose wording the Big Two have been negotiating for months.

The difficulty over the inspection provision is less between the Soviet Union and the United States than between the Western European powers and the Soviets, the U.S. sources said.

The West European Common Market countries have their own system under Euratom, their joint atomic energy agency, to insure that nuclear fuel is not diverted to military use. They do not want to give up their safeguards system, while Moscow says European atomic plants along with those elsewhere should come under the inspection system of the International Atomic Energy Agency.

The nonproliferation treaty would bar non-nuclear signers forever from acquiring atomic arms—and the have-not nations at the Geneva meeting have been pressing the conference cochairmen, the United States and the Soviet Union, for their proposed wording.

On another disarmament project to limit the U. S. Soviet antimissile and offensive missile races, Kosygin reportedly agreed to discussions but would not say when U.S. sources consider the issue still open.

LBJ Appeals To Israeli

Warns Against Jerusalem Grab

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House made a public appeal to Israel today to avoid any quick annexation of the old section of Jerusalem seized from Jordan in the Middle East war.

"The President is confident that the wisdom and good judgment of those now in control of Jerusalem will prevent any such action," the statement said.

The pronouncement came on the heels of word from Jerusalem that the Israelis, in a step toward annexation, had unified municipal services between the sectors of the city.

Assistant press secretary Tom Johnson read the statement which said Johnson "assumes that before any unilateral action is taken on the status of Jerusalem there will be appropriate consultation with religious leaders and others who are deeply concerned."

The city, holy to adherents of three religious faiths, has been a center of conflict repeatedly during the last 20 years, the statement said.

"Men of all religions will agree that we must now do better," it said. "The world must find an answer that is fair and recognized to be fair. That could not be achieved by hasty, unilateral action."

The West European Common Market countries have their own system under Euratom, their joint atomic energy agency, to insure that nuclear fuel is not diverted to military use. They do not want to give up their safeguards system, while Moscow says European atomic plants along with those elsewhere should come under the inspection system of the International Atomic Energy Agency.

Tax Surcharge

(Continued from Page 1) ulate about dates like Aug. 15. Another week or 10 days would be required for House consideration and passage, and the committee would not take up another major measure during this period.

Hearings on a tax increase, if any are held, are likely to be prolonged. Although the administration would like to confine the issue to a simple yes or no on an increase in personal and corporate income taxes, spokesmen for a variety of view will be pressing for a chance to voice them.

Ackley, appearing Tuesday before the Senate-House Economic Committee, ran into demands that the administration consider closing loopholes in present tax laws to increase its revenue, rather than seeking an across the board raise.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., committee chairman, said it would be refreshing if the administration proposed reduction in the oil depletion allowance, a perennial target of tax change advocates, but one which has withstood all attacks.

Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., said the imposition of capital gains taxes on estates and tightening of tax-exempt provisions on the yield of municipal bonds would yield $3.5 billion a year. The remainder of the administration goal of $5 billion could be achieved readily by other forms of tightening and without a general increase, he said.

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan and GOP congressmen have said they will not support a tax increase unless the budget first has been cut substantially.

Of the funds that would be budgeted for the program, $30,000 would be spent for training 10 nurses' aides who would go into the homes of families to help them improve their health hygiene.

Two registered nurses, one full-time and another part-time, are included in the program and $7,500 would be budgeted for them. A project coordinator would receive $5,000 and a secretary $3,500.

Federal officials selected Pickaway County as one of three counties to participate in the new program. Future projects of this type will probably be undertaken if this one succeeds, officials said.

Bingo Squabble Ends with Acid Thrown in Face

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Ohio (AP)—A Stark County woman accused of throwing acid in the face of another woman after a bingo game at Immaculate Conception Church in nearby Denison was held in Tuscarawas County Jail here today in lieu of $2,000 bond. The incident occurred Monday night.

Charged with throwing corrosive acid with intent to maim was Mrs. Margie Davis, 36, of Navarre. She is accused of throwing what police said was hydrochloric acid at Mrs. Alice Meehan, mother of a Dennison patrolman.

Both women were treated for acid burns, authorities said. Mrs. Davis was burned, police said, when Mrs. Meehan deflected some of the acid as she raised her hands to protect herself.

Police said Mrs. Davis won the $500 bingo jackpot and was approached after the game by Mrs. Meehan, who asked for her address and telephone number. Mrs. Meehan accused Mrs. Davis of using her bingo cards, police said.

Negro Leader's Home Blasted

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — The home of J. L. LeFlore was shattered by an explosion early today, but the 62-year-old Negro leader suffered only a slight cut over his eye.

It was the third incident aimed at LeFlore. "They never notify you when they plan something like this," he said. "I expect things like this, but had relaxed. This caught me completely off guard."

Police Lt. Donald Riddle said the blast, which knocked the six-room frame house off its foundation, occurred about 1:20 a.m.

Effortless 'Driving'

If the federal government has its way, beginning next year tourists will drive the Washington, D. C., to Jacksonville, Fla., route in about 12 hours without turning on their engines.

As part of its rapid transportation studies the Department of Transportation has developed a contract for construction of the nation's first train-car vehicle. To be built — ironically — by an aircraft company, the car-carrying train will adopt the piggyback concept which has proved so popular with trucking firms.

For a fare of $100—$75 more than a one-way coach ticket—a motorist will load his car on a double-decker train along with about 85 others, and included in the fare will be a "reasonable" number of passengers. A half day later all will disembark at their destination, presumably completely refreshed.

En route, passengers may leave their cars and make their way along a carpeted floor to service cars located at either end of the train. Attractions in the service cars will include a dining room, nursery, television and movie theater. Decor inside and outside the train will be attractive.

After one year of government ownership, presuming the experiment is a success, the train will be sold to private railroads. The government will not recover all of its investment — it seldom does — but promoters of the plan hope fares and sale of equipment will return a substantial part of it.

Perhaps the car-train arrangement is not as revolutionary as monorail systems or long distance commuter subways, but it is an experiment in long distance automobile travel with the potential of wide application. All that is required is that it meet the test of economics.

It Strikes Twice

Lightning Protection Institute discloses that on an average there are 600 fatalities caused by lightning in a year in the U. S. In addition, 1,500 persons are injured by lightning and property damage exceeds $100 million.

The institute says a tall object is more likely to be hit by lightning than a low one. It lists danger spots on a golf course, in a boat, in water while swimming, atop a hill, on the beach under an isolated tree near a wire fence or overhead wires and riding a tractor, bicycle, horse or farm machinery.

The safest places are given as in buildings protected by lightning rods, steel-framed buildings and inside closed cars.

If caught outdoors, what should you do? Seek protection in a ravine, ditch or cave—or lie flat on the ground so as not to be the tallest object in the immediate area. Inside unprotected buildings, keep away from doorways, open windows, metal objects, the fireplace, the sink, the telephone and the television set.

The estimate is that any given area will have an average of 40 electric storms a year. And in a square mile these will account for 40 to 80 lightning strikes a year.

And don't believe lightning cannot strike twice in the same place. Evidence to the contrary is ample.

The Aspen Award

By John Chamberlain

The Aspen Award — $30,000 tax-free to "that individual anywhere in the world judged to have made the greatest contribution to the humanities" — is coming up this week-end at the Aspen Institute for Humanistic Studies in Colorado, and it goes this year to the Brazilian sociologist-historian, Gilberto Freyre.

Normally, the award has more cultural significance than political. It has gone, in the past, to Benjamin Britten, the British composer, to Martha Graham, the high priestess of the modern American dance, and to C. A. Doxiadis, the Greek city-planner, none of whom is in politics. But Freyre, in addition to being the master of a literary form that blends sociological interpretation, esthetic appreciation, and plain historical narrative, has a message for the world's foreign offices that could, if it were only heeded, make the late John F. Kennedy's plea for "diversity" among the nations come true without involving bloodshed.

Freyre delights in his own country — the biggest in South America — as an "ethnic" democracy, which means that it makes no dangerous issue of differences in race or color. The Brazilians, who abolished slavery without a civil war, are assimilationists: they have adopted British football, the French taste for pastry, the East Indian love of rice, the North American sewing machine, the Amerindian hammock, the Portuguese toothpick, the African dish couscous (made with local manioc), and the Chinese style of roof, which is to say that the only parochial thing about Brazilians is their insistence that God Himself is a Brazilian.

The love of Brazil, particularly the more tropical parts of that country, infuses all of Freyre's remarkable books, such as "New World in the Tropics" and "The Masters and the Slaves." But readers who think Brazil is quite capable of taking care of itself (it seems to absorb its "revolutions" without much bloodshed) will find more universal significance in Freyre's thesis that there is a special international virtue in what he calls the politics of "Luso-tropicalism." Put in plain terms, this means that Portugal, alone among the European powers, has found the key to a successful mingling of the races. What Freyre is trying to tell western "liberals" is that they should not take the side of black "racists" in Africa against the Portuguese colonies of Angola and Mozambique, where blacks, mulattoes, and whites have learned to live together with dignity and forbearance.

If the separate nations of Africa could work out their own destinies without recourse to the driving anti-colonial imperialism of the tropical Africans, who insist that every sub-Saharan country be dominated by a black majority without regard to minority rights, the world would be the better.

We might then call off the crazy blockade of Rhodesia and concentrate on trying to soften the rigors of the South African institution of apartheid without provoking vindictiveness. An appreciation of the Portuguese way in Angola and Mozambique might be the social solvent to end the struggle that is now exploited by the Communists to keep the Afro-Asian world in everlasting turmoil.

As a Brazilian, Gilberto Freyre looks with a benign eye on miscegenation. But his argument for the toleration of interracial marriage is an argument for tolerance itself rather than an argument for any particular theory of genetics. The point is that nobody in the "Luso-tropical" world that includes Brazil, Angola, and Mozambique has to be anything in particular in order to pursue his happiness to the maximum of his ability.

Portugal, which colonized Brazil, has been regarded for many years as a has-been nation. But it must have been doing something right, for, practically alone in the European world, it has hung on to its African colonies. Freyre puts the something right" this way: Following assimilative methods that they seem to have learned from the Moors, the Portuguese have been successful, as no other European seems to have been, in assimilating into the institutions of social forms of Portugal, or of Christian or Latin Europe, local populations that even today, though predominantly yellow as in Macao, or predominantly brown as in Portuguese East India, or black as among the assimilated Negroes of Africa, consider themselves Portuguese.

So this year's Aspen Award has a political message. It wasn't intended that way, but the world might as well make use of a happy accident.

AN ALLEGED horse thief took the stand to defend himself in the kind of Western outpost so familiar to TV fans. "Prisoner," growled the justice of the peace, fondling his shooting irons, "There's one thing I want to tell you before you get sworn in on that Bible. Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

How can the parents of a young infant know why he cries for long periods of time? The only way an infant can express himself is by crying. There are cries for pain, cries for more food and cries of irritability.

After a while a parent can actually distinguish one kind of crying from another. A "sick cry" is just not the same as a "wet diaper" cry.

When a child is bored or wants to be held, he cries for that. When the formula is insufficient and the child is hungry, he lets you know by crying.

Parents soon learn to handle crying without panic or frustration, especially when they've learned the art of distinguishing one cry from another.

Really persistent crying that has no apparent cause should be investigated by the physician in order to rule out the possibility of organic disease.

Why do we read of epidemics of meningitis in army camps?

Is it due to poor health standards? Meningitis is an infection and inflammation of the meninges or covering of the brain and the spinal cord. The most common form of meningitis is caused by the meningococcus bacteria.

Before the era of the antibiotics and the sulfa drugs, meningitis was a terrifying disease. Today this type is controlled and cured in a remarkably high percentage of cases.

Epidemics of meningitis have a tendency to break out in densely populated areas. The disease is passed from one to another by droplets from a sneeze or cough. The germ is sometimes carried by people who themselves are healthy. It has been suggested that meningitis occurs in army camps for another reason. Young men from outlying country areas may for the first time be exposed to new germs without having built up their own protective antibodies.

The standards of cleanliness and the health supervision in the armed forces of the United States are unmatched in excellence.

Our men in the armed forces are surrounded by the finest in medical and surgical attention. An outbreak of an epidemic cannot be attributed to carelessness. As soon as there is any suspicion, Public Health officials move in and, with unswerving diligence, track down the source of the epidemic to keep it as limited as possible, and under control.

How can bed sores be prevented when someone is confined to bed for a long time? Patients so confined should be turned often so that no persistent pressure is made on any one spot for a long time. The buttocks, heels, knees and elbows are usually most prone to bed sores.

Sponging with warm water and a gentle soap should be followed by careful drying of all folds of the skin. Then, generous powdering to prevent irritation and chafing. "Doughnuts," made of foam rubber, sponges, soft silicone plastics and sheepskins, can protect tender areas of the skin.

There are now many air-cushioning devices created by specialists in rehabilitative medicine. Cushions, chairs and beds can be custom-made to prevent bed sores and ulcerations.

'Typical New Yorker' Isn't

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the great American myths is "the typical New Yorker."

By tradition, the typical New Yorker is a sophisticated fellow who hobnobs with celebrities, dwells in a penthouse, reads all the latest best sellers, eats only at the fanciest restaurants, spends his evenings at night clubs, gets daily inside tips on what to buy in Wall Street, and knows whom to call at City Hall if he wants to get a traffic ticket fixed.

He's a "guy in the know," and compared to him anybody who dwells west of the Hudson River is a hinterland hayseed.

Ah, me, if life were only like that!

After 30 years of dwelling in O. Henry's fabled Baghdad on the Subway, I've decided that when it comes to "the typical New Yorker" of romantic legend, there probably ain't no such animal.

The "typical New Yorker," if you do happen to meet one, usually turns out to be an out-of-towner here for a lark on a Texas-sized expense account.

"I don't see how you stand the pace here," he says, leaving for home after a week or two spent trying to paint the big city a vivid crimson. "It would get me down."

Such remarks make a real New Yorker want to slit the out-of-towner's throat quietly. For the real New Yorker, like most of his brethren across the country, has to make do on a pretty tight budget. He doesn't see as much of the high-living side of the city in a year as a fastback visitor sees in a few nights.

There has been a steady exodus of middleclass white people from the city for several decades. Now the middleclass Negroes and Puerto Ricans are doing the same thing. As soon as they can afford to, they also are moving out to the suburbs in Westchester County and Long Island.

It isn't the mass of natives who keep the $20 a meal glitter spots and the big expensive Broadway musicals running. New York is a work city, rather than "Fun City," to them.

Your real New Yorker is a guy who labors at an anonymous skyscraper desk and selects his lunch from a drug counter menu.

Your real New Yorker is a Wall Street stenographer who pays more than she can afford for a tiny dark walkup apartment in a Greenwich Village building that would probably be condemned in Vermont as an eyesore.

But they all share that same big dream: to earn enough so they can move away to somewhere cleaner and less noisy and less expensive.

Then they can come back occasionally as tourists and enjoy the big city in the way that only the out of towners can, pockets loaded with butter and egg money burning to be spent.

The Business World

By John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — A tax surcharge, which the head of the Federal Reserve Board suggested this week is the main need of the economy, could turn out to mean more economic headaches—and less revenue than is hoped for.

This is a tricky measure. Expert as the tax technicians may be in this era of the manipulated economy, they cannot foresee all the consequences of the surtax plan. This probably explains the hesitancy in putting the plan into action.

It was first proposed by the administration early this year as a six per cent surcharge on all corporate and personal income taxes—in effect a tax on your taxes. The reasoning behind the proposal was that a vigorous 1967 economy would need a restraining influence.

It is being advocated now—by William McChesney Martin, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board—as a revenue builder that might help offset a deficit in government financing and lessen the threat of inflation.

But the 1967 economy has not been as strong as anticipated, even though Martin referred to "the recovery under way." A surtax could shrink the tax base by slowing business. And if the base shrinks, so will the revenue produced from it.

Problems such as this are what lead to recurring opinions that the Johnson administration has few options. The needle on the compass point to some unpleasant weather in any direction.

As Martin indicated, the big problem is the government's big deficit, estimated at somewhere between $13.5 billion and $29.2 billion and which, in some ways, is a contradiction to other federal policies.

For example, both the Johnson administration and the Federal Reserve have been using all their efforts this year to make credit more easily available and at lower rates. The reason: to prod the economy.

However, not all interest rates have gone down. Longterm rates—the charges on loans for periods of many years—actually have risen, and now some business loans are being made at record high charges.

The fear now is that these high interest rates may develop also in consumer loans and in the home mortgage market. This would abort completely the Federal Reserve's easy money policy, which already has been less than successful.

As Martin indicated, the contradictory behavior of interest rates is based on a fear of the big government deficit, a deficit that means the government will have to borrow money.

When the government goes into the market for huge sums of money, it can cause additional upward pressure on interest rates. Some corporate treasurers, therefore, are borrowing now in advance of requirements to avoid a future shortage or higher rates.

In advocating prompt action, Martin perhaps has in mind the experience of last year when, despite constant prodding, the administration failed to use fiscal measures, such as taxes, to cool an overheated economy.

There has been a steady exodus of middleclass white people from the city for several decades. Now the middleclass Negroes and Puerto Ricans are doing the same thing. As soon as they can afford to, they also are moving out to the suburbs in Westchester County and Long Island.

It isn't the mass of natives

who keep the $20 a meal glitter spots and the big expensive Broadway musicals running. New York is a work city, rather than "Fun City," to them.

Your real New Yorker is a guy who labors at an anonymous skyscraper desk and selects his lunch from a drug counter menu.

Your real New Yorker is a Wall Street stenographer who pays more than she can afford for a tiny dark walkup apartment in a Greenwich Village building that would probably be condemned in Vermont as an eyesore.

But they all share that same big dream: to earn enough so they can move away to somewhere cleaner and less noisy and less expensive.

Then they can come back occasionally as tourists and enjoy the big city in the way that only the out of towners can, pockets loaded with butter and egg money burning to be spent.

The Business World

By John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — A tax surcharge, which the head of the Federal Reserve Board suggested this week is the main need of the economy, could turn out to mean more economic headaches — and less revenue than is hoped for.

This is a tricky measure. Expert as the tax technicians may be in this era of the manipulated economy, they cannot foresee all the consequences of the surtax plan. This probably explains the hesitancy in putting the plan into action.

It was first proposed by the administration early this year as a six per cent surcharge on all corporate and personal income taxes — in effect a tax on your taxes. The reasoning behind the proposal was that a vigorous 1967 economy would need a restraining influence.

It is being advocated now — by William McChesney Martin, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board — as a revenue builder that might help offset a deficit in government financing and lessen the threat of inflation.

But the 1967 economy has not been as strong as anticipated, even though Martin referred to "the recovery under way." A surtax could shrink the tax base by slowing business. And if the base shrinks, so will the revenue produced from it.

Problems such as this are what lead to recurring opinions that the Johnson administration has few options. The needle on the compass point to some unpleasant weather in any direction.

As Martin indicated, the big problem is the government's big deficit, estimated at somewhere between $13.5 billion and $29.2 billion and which, in some ways, is a contradiction to other federal policies.

For example, both the Johnson administration and the Federal Reserve have been using all their efforts this year to make credit more easily available and at lower rates. The reason: to prod the economy.

However, not all interest rates have gone down. Longterm rates — the charges on loans for periods of many years — actually have risen, and now some business loans are being made at record high charges.

The fear now is that these high interest rates may develop also in consumer loans and in the home mortgage market. This would abort completely the Federal Reserve's easy money policy, which already has been less than successful.

As Martin indicated, the contradictory behavior of interest rates is based on a fear of the big government deficit, a deficit that means the government will have to borrow money.

When the government goes into the market for huge sums of money, it can cause additional upward pressure on interest rates. Some corporate treasurers, therefore, are borrowing now in advance of requirements to avoid a future shortage or higher rates.

In advocating prompt action, Martin perhaps has in mind the experience of last year when, despite constant prodding, the administration failed to use fiscal measures, such as taxes, to cool an overheated economy.

JOHNSON CAUTIOUSLY HOPEFUL—Ending their historic, two meeting summit conference in Glassboro, N.J., President Johnson and Soviet Premier Kosygin share a car to the Glassboro State College baseball field, where they boarded separate helicopters. The President was cautiously hopeful that the summit talks made the world "a little less dangerous"; Kosygin, more restrained, said talks had been "useful."

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Girl Sending Her Friend To Poorhouse

DEAR ABBY: My girl friend is a brilliant college graduate with a Master's degree, and she earns $20,000 per year. I never went past high school, and I earn $5,000 per year. We go out three times a week and she likes to go to all the most expensive places, and she being sort of the leader, that is where we invariably go.

I could have just as good a time at a less expensive place, but I don't want to look cheap by making an issue of it, so we always end up going to the expensive places.

Naturally, I pay the tab. I am supporting my aged mother and a child by a previous marriage, and these dates are more than I can afford. My girl friend supports no one but herself and apparently doesn't realize my situation. I'm afraid if I tell her she will either have to go to less expensive places or help pay the tab. I will lose her. What is your advice in this case?

POOR MALE

Lurleen Wallace Has a Malignancy Needing Surgery

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. Lurleen Wallace of Alabama says she has a malignancy which may require surgery again.

The nation's only woman governor said she would enter M.D. Anderson Hospital in Houston, Tex., next week on the recommendation of her doctors. The hospital is noted for its treatment and study of cancer.

Her husband, former Gov. George C. Wallace, is expected to be a third-party candidate for president next year.

In a tersely worded announcement Monday night, the diminutive 41-year-old Alabama chief executive said tests conducted during a thorough physical examination last week showed "that I have a malignancy which may again require surgery."

The announcement said an exact day of departure would be set later.

God's Forgotten Country

Way out in the Far East, Viet Nam is the spot, We are here serving our country,
In a land that God forgot,
Here with the bugs and hargoads;
Here where a man gets homesick and blue,
Here in Viet Nam, Thousands of miles from you.

We sweat, we shiver, we fight like hell,
All this we can stand, We are not convicts,
We are defenders of this land.

We are soldiers of the Air Force,
Earning our measly pay; Guarding and fighting the Vietnamese,
For two and one half a day.

Very few know we're here And very few give a damn. Soon we'll be forgotten For serving Uncle Sam

But when we pass thru those

ICC Wants Rail Merger at Once

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission urged a Federal court today to allow the merger of the New York Central and Pennsylvania Railroads to be completed immediately.

In papers mailed to U. S. District Court in New York City the ICC urged rejection of a request by the Norfolk Western Railway—supported by the Justice Department—that the merger be held up pending court review of the fate of three smaller eastern railroads.

The NW is appealing to the federal courts an ICC decision made earlier this month to order the Norfolk Western to take over the three smaller lines which the commission found would be forced out of business if they had to compete independently against a merged Penn-Central. The three are the Erie-Lackawanna, Boston Maine, and Delaware Hudson.

Drowning Girl Resuscitated

CINCINNATI (AP) — Mouth-to-mouth resuscitation saved the life of a little Cincinnati girl who fell into the Little Miami River at nearby Terrace Park Monday.

Authorities said Maurice Rosset of Milford pulled 2-year-old Natalie Mashburn from the river a few minutes after she fell in. Todd Robbin, 15, Terrace Park, applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and Natalie started breathing again.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Girl Sending Her Friend To Poorhouse

DEAR ABBY: My girl friend is a brilliant college graduate with a Master's degree, and she earns $20,000 per year. I never went past high school, and I earn $5,000 per year. We go out three times a week and she likes to go to all the most expensive places, and she being sort of the leader, that is where we invariably go.

I could have just as good a time at a less expensive place, but I don't want to look cheap by making an issue of it, so we always end up going to the expensive places.

Naturally, I pay the tab. I am supporting my aged mother and a child by a previous marriage, and these dates are more than I can afford. My girl friend supports no one but herself and apparently doesn't realize my situation. I'm afraid if I tell her she will either have to go to less expensive places or help pay the tab, I will lose her. What is your advice in this case?

Retrial Effort Fails for Trio

CINCINNATI (AP) — Three white youths' efforts to get a new trial on charges stemming out of this month's racial disturbances failed Monday.

Municipal Judge William S. Mathews denied the retrial motion of Tommy Bedford, 18; Roger Hammer, 18, and Danny Bedford, 19. The youths were arrested June 17 after striking a Negro's car with a chain and on June 20 Judge Mathews convicted them of disorderly conduct. They were each sentenced to 30 days in the workhouse and fined $100.

Dentistry Becomes Real Science

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer

Back in the Revolutionary War era, a wealthy man sometimes would buy another man's tooth.

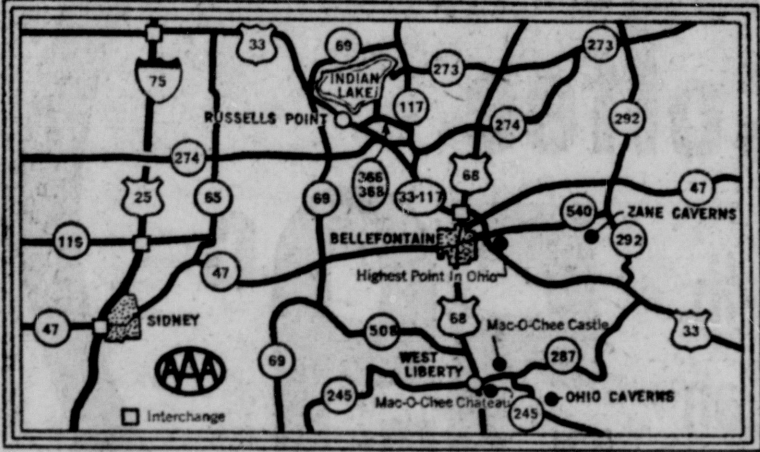

It would be a healthy tooth. A dentist would pull it, and then place it in the purchaser's jaw to replace a missing front tooth, or a molar for a better attack on a steak.

Unhappily, the borrowed tooth lasted only a matter of months. Some 6,000 years earlier, wealthy Chinese had tried the same experiment, with similar failure.

But now an explosion in scientific research is bringing a revolution in dentistry. From it may come:

- Tooth banks to give you healthy living teeth when needed.
- Vaccines to prevent tooth decay. Researchers are already

Church Must Work For Reconciliation

CINCINNATI (AP)—The ministers of the United Church of Christ "should work for the peace of Jerusalem" by trying to achieve a reconciliation of warring nations, a top official of the denomination says.

The Rev. Dr. Alford Carleton of New York City told delegates to the church's sixth General Synod Monday night that they have an obligation to work for peace everywhere, including the Middle East "where thousands of Arab refugees need help."

This technique also may eliminate the need for gold alloy pins to attach front teeth, thus promising savings up to $8 million a year. The dream of borrowing a natural tooth is being pursued at several centers, including the National Institute's clinical section headed by Dr. Harold R. Stanley.

Human volunteers are aiding this cause. Destined to lose some teeth because of gum disease or other reasons, they agreed to have them extracted, and then replaced in the empty sockets after the teeth have been cleaned.

At first, the reimplanting stimulates growth of new alveolar bone, which holds teeth in place, Dr. Stanley reports. But after about nine months the teeth are rejected. The research is aimed at learning why. Perhaps, Dr. Stanley says, the teeth might be treated with some material that stimulated strong and enduring new bone growth and permanent retention.

These studies may help explain why living tissue borrowed from another person—be it a kidney, tooth, or skin—is reject as foreign, much as invading germs are. Ways to overcome this rejection mechanism must be found to make tooth banks feasible.

Basic questions as to what happens to teeth during drilling, or in reaction to certain fillings, being answered in Dr. Stanley's laboratory by detailed tests of healthy human teeth.

So far, volunteers across the country have contributed to the project some 6,000 teeth due to be lost for varied reasons.

The findings are aimed at setting reliable standards that dentists everywhere could use for benefit of their patients.

Detection of tooth decay almost before it happens—when it is far easier to correct—is the goal of a new device developed at the National Bureau of Standards and now being used in further studies at the American Dental Association's new million-dollar research facility in Chicago.

Ohio Caverns have striking white and colored formations of stalactites and stalagmites. Hour long tours of the illuminated caverns are run between 8 and 5. A well-kept picnic area provides a shelter house and kiddie amusements. Admission is $1.50 (children 55 cents).

Zane Caverns are one of the few "active" caves, with formations still growing. A tour through lighted passages 132 feet down takes an hour. Hours are 9 to 6; admission is $1.50 (children 75 cents). A playground, and picnicking and hiking area are on the grounds.

The castles are a mile apart on Ohio 245, east of West Liberty. Built by the Platt brothers, (General Abraham and Colonel Donn), in the 1860's and 1870's, they are well kept and authentically furnished.

Mac-O-Cheek Chateau models a French Norman chateau. It has three floors and 35 rooms, with a five-story tower. The frescoed ceilings are perfectly preserved. Mac-O-Cheek Castle, resembling a Flemish Castle, has three floors and two towers topped by picturesque spires. Both the ceilings and walls are frescoed.

The castles contain relics of the Mac-A-Chee Indians, who lived in the area, and Platt family possessions collected since the French and Indian War. They are open daily. Admission to each is 80 cents (children, 40 cents).

The AAA club suggests this routing to the tour area: From Circleville go north on U.S. 23 to Jct. I-270; west on I-270 to Jct. I-71; north on I-71 to Jct. U.S. 33; follow U.S. 33 northwest to tour area just east of Bellefontaine.

POPE ENTERS "SECRET CONSISTORY"—Pope Paul VI enters Consistorial Hall in Vatican City to hold a "secret consistory" of old cardinals, for their approval of elevation of 27 Roman Catholic Church prelates to the Sacred College of Cardinals. (Cablephoto)

This year some 3,700 research projects concerned directly or indirectly with tooth and mouth health are in progress in this country alone. The range is tremendously varied.

Barnacles are one interest. These creatures exude a liquid that hardens in water to form an unbelievably tenacious cement, as any sailor knows.

By solving the barnacle's secrets, scientists hope to fashion new dental cements that will hold indefinitely and prevent new decay from occurring beneath fillings. Similar cements might be found to serve as filling materials themselves or as protective coatings for the tooth to last a lifetime.

Longer-lasting dentures are promised from findings by Dr. George C. Paffenbarger, senior research associate of the American Dental Association at the National Bureau of Standards, Washington, D.C.

He and associates applied a new silane glue to bond porcelain teeth to acrylic resin denture bases. Tests show the denture is made stronger and that food and bacteria cannot seep between the teeth and base.

This technique also may eliminate the need for gold alloy pins to attach front teeth, thus promising savings up to $8 million a year. The dream of borrowing a natural tooth is being pursued at several centers, including the National Institute's clinical section headed by Dr. Harold R. Stanley.

Human volunteers are aiding this cause. Destined to lose some teeth because of gum disease or other reasons, they agreed to have them extracted, and then replaced in the empty sockets after the teeth have been cleaned.

At first, the reimplanting stimulates growth of new alveolar bone, which holds teeth in place, Dr. Stanley reports. But after about nine months the teeth are rejected. The research is aimed at learning why. Perhaps, Dr. Stanley says, the teeth might be treated with some material that stimulated strong and enduring new bone growth and permanent retention.

These studies may help explain why living tissue borrowed from another person—be it a kidney, tooth, or skin—is reject as foreign, much as invading germs are. Ways to overcome this rejection mechanism must be found to make tooth banks feasible.

Basic questions as to what happens to teeth during drilling, or in reaction to certain fillings, being answered in Dr. Stanley's laboratory by detailed tests of healthy human teeth.

So far, volunteers across the country have contributed to the project some 6,000 teeth due to be lost for varied reasons.

The findings are aimed at setting reliable standards that dentists everywhere could use for benefit of their patients.

Detection of tooth decay almost before it happens—when it is far easier to correct—is the goal of a new device developed at the National Bureau of Standards and now being used in further studies at the American Dental Association's new million-dollar research facility in Chicago.

Called a fluorometer, it examines teeth under ultraviolet light. Destruction of protein elements in enamel in initial stages of decay makes such spots fluoresce differently from healthy enamel, explains Dr. Harvey Lyon, clinical director.

A&P

Is it square to be patriotic?

If it is... then, by golly, we're square.

Because we're proud of our American heritage... grateful for the free enterprise system that has afforded us the privilege of serving the American people for more than a century.

The United States is today, and has been since its founding, the land of opportunity.

We've been first-hand witnesses to this fact for a long time.

In our business, we've seen good, sound competition grow and prosper.

We welcome it.

It keeps us on our toes.

As July 4th approaches, we want to go on record as saying: "We're proud of being Americans."

As we said: "If this be square, then we're square."

Government Announces New Highway Standards

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government announced Tuesday 13 national standards all of the states are expected to meet eventually to cut down the death toll on roads and highways.

Secretary of Transportation Alan S. Boyd said "The time has come for reaching these goals cannot be set yet because it depends on firm cost estimates and actions by state legislatures."

But Boyd said adoption of the government to start working with the states, using funds already authorized.

He said $167 million is available through June 30, 1968 and that three quarters of this total will be allocated to the states on a population basis with the remaining one fourth to be earmarked for use at the discretion of the transportation secretary.

Boyd stressed, at a news conference, the federal intent to work with the states, but he noted that the law provides penalties for states failing to comply or show progressive efforts to meet the national standards. He said the penalty would take the form of withholding of federal funds for highway construction.

Boyd noted the standards covered essentially the same points or areas as did the draft standards made public by the National Highway Safety Bureau in February.

Boyd said that the standard for periodic motor vehicle inspection was probably "the most needed from an overall standpoint."

All states will be required to have comprehensive driver training programs to be made available to all youths of licensing age.

Dominican Government Now Adept Red Raider

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The New York-bound jet was readying for departure when a shirt-sleeved man emerged from the terminal, walked swiftly toward the plane and handed a black bag to the last passenger on the ramp.

Although there seemed nothing unusual about the episode, it was the climactic moment in an hours-long airport vigil by Dominican security agents, who quickly board the plane and removed three passengers and their luggage.

The rampside delivery of a bag was what they were expecting. A few hours later they had what they suspected: among the contents of the black bag were four letters to Communist parties abroad, two of them messages of thanks for help to the Central Committee of the Cuban Communist party and the Communist Party of Peace of Communist China. Rolled up tightly inside a tooth-powder can were 200 35-mm negatives of aerial maps of the Dominican countryside.

There also were reports on local Communist activities.

This was last Jan. 15. On May 5, security agents and national police raided an apartment in downtown Santo Domingo and arrested Jose Ignacio Marte Polanco, 39, amateur radio operator with a license made out under the alias of Luis Pina Baez. Officials said he admitted training in Cuba. Under a wall switch in the apartment, police said, they found a tiny booklet of white plastic sheets with serial numbers in red and black. Officials here identified it as a "one-time pad," a coded and intricate manual used by Communist agents for quickie communications. The man arrested had three transmitters in his room, one a small 75-watt unit which, police said, he probably used to contact Cuba.

In between these operations, security agents and national police have seized an impressive quantity of weapons and Communist documents that show, says President Joaquin Balaguer, the hand of Red China and Fidel Castro in attempts to subvert order in this Caribbean nation.

The material seized also points up the determination of Dominican left-wing extremists—notably the Castroite 14th of June Revolutionary Movement and the pro-China Dominican Popular Movement—to infiltrate peasant ranks and open guerrilla fronts in the northeast, central and western mountain ranges.

The record of successful raids in recent months also is viewed as indicative of the growing effectiveness of the government's internal security forces. These have undergone sharp reorganization and modernization since the 1965 revolution, with the help of a U.S. public safety program under Alliance for Progress auspices. The program provides equipment and technical assistance from veteran American police and peace-keeping officers assigned here.

For the first time, authorities say, patrols are going into isolated rural and mountain areas, not only to seek outlaw breakers but to perform minimal "civic action" tasks. Every day from various stations throughout the country, gray police jeeps and trucks carrying from five to a dozen armed men fan out into forests and canyons with a simple order: "Patrols begin where the road ends."

These are members of a special rural corps called Department of Special Operations. Each team includes one medical practitioner who treats villagers, provides medicine and delivers babies. The patrols usually also include graduates of South American and U.S. police academies or of the counterinsurgency school in the Panama Canal Zone.

The patrols have smashed at least three attempts by far-leftists to open mountain guerrilla camps. Two members of the so-called "China cadre," Orlando Masara and Miguel Reyes Saldaña, were killed this year in clashes with national police in the mountains. The "China cadre" was composed of eight Dominicans who returned to the country, authorities said, after six months of intensive guerrilla training in Communist China. It was the nucleus of the guerrilla warfare effort by Dominican Marxists.

The seized documents, officials say, have enabled security agents to determine how the 14th of June body, for operational purposes, has divided Santo Domingo into six districts and the rest of the country into north, east, south and west regions.

The general belief is that obscure party members, traveling as tourists, are acting as couriers for financial sources in Havana, Moscow and Peking.

Government Announces New Highway Standards

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government announced Tuesday 13 national standards all of the states are expected to meet eventually to cut down the death toll on roads and highways.

Secretary of Transportation Alan S. Boyd said "The time has come for reaching these goals cannot be set yet because it depends on firm cost estimates and actions by state legislatures."

But Boyd said adoption of the government to start working with the states, using funds already authorized.

He said $167 million is available through June 30, 1968 and that three quarters of this total will be allocated to the states on a population basis with the remaining one fourth to be earmarked for use at the discretion of the transportation secretary.

Boyd stressed, at a news conference, the federal intent to work with the states, but he noted that the law provides penalties for states failing to comply or show progressive efforts to meet the national standards. He said the penalty would take the form of withholding of federal funds for highway construction.

Boyd noted the standards covered essentially the same points or areas as did the draft standards made public by the National Highway Safety Bureau in February.

Boyd said that the standard for periodic motor vehicle inspection was probably "the most needed from an overall standpoint."

All states will be required to have comprehensive driver training programs to be made available to all youths of licensing age.

Dominican Government Now Adept Red Raider

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The New York-bound jet was ready for departure when a shirt-sleeved man emerged from the terminal, walked swiftly toward the plane and handed a black bag to the last passenger on the ramp. Although there seemed nothing unusual about the episode, it was the climactic moment in an hours-long airport vigil by Dominican security agents, who quickly boarded the plane and removed three passengers and their luggage.

Woman Injured Trying To Save Son

LONDON, Ohio (AP) — A young London mother suffered serious injuries Monday night in a desperate attempt to push her son from the path of an oncoming train, police reported.

The mother, Mrs. Edna Mae Hatfield, 25, underwent surgery at Madison County Hospital here. Her condition today was described as fair.

Her son, Thomas Dale, 5, escaped injury when he was pushed off the track by another woman, Mrs. Sarah Owens, police reported. Mrs. Owens also escaped unhurt.

minican security agents, who quickly boarded the plane and removed three passengers and their luggage.

The rampside delivery of a bag was what they were expecting. A few hours later they had what they suspected: among the contents of the black bag were four letters to Communist parties abroad, two of them messages of thanks for help to the Central Committee of the Cuban Communist party and the Committee of Peace of Communist China. Rolled up tightly inside a tooth-powder can were 200 35-mm negatives of aerial maps of the Dominican countryside. There also were reports on local Communist activities.

This was last Jan. 15. On May

There are some 2,500 different types of minerals to be found in rocks. They range from the popular finds such as mica, pyrite, calcite and quartz to sulphur crystals so delicate that the heat of a hand will crack them. Recently a Colorado woman picked up a 50-carat white topaz worth $2,000.

5, security agents and national police raided an apartment in downtown Santo Domingo and arrested Jose Ignacio Marte Polanco, 39, amateur radio operator with a license made out under the alias of Luis Pina Baez. Officials said he admitted training in Cuba. Under a wall switch in the apartment, police

Justice Dept. Also Probes Dodd

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has completed its own investigation of the affairs of Sen. Thomas J. Dodd and now is examining material that the Senate used in deciding to censure the Connecticut Democrat, officials said today.

Only after considering all the evidence, an official said, will the department decide whether to prosecute Dodd.

Dodd, 60, was censured by the Senate last Friday for making personal use of at least $116,083 in campaign and testimonial funds.

said, they found a tiny booklet of white plastic sheets with serial numbers in red and black. Officials here identified it as a "one-time pad," a coded and intricate manual used by Communist agents for quickie communications. The man arrested had three transmitters in his room, one a small 75-watt unit which, police said, he probably used to contact Cuba.

In between these operations, security agents and national police have seized an impressive quantity of weapons and Communist documents that show, says President Joaquin Balaguer, the hand of Red China and Fidel Castro in attempts to subvert order in this Caribbean nation.

The material seized also points up the determination of Dominican left-wing extremists — notably the Castroite 14th of June Revolutionary Movement and the pro-China Dominican Popular Movement — to infiltrate peasant ranks and open guerrilla fronts in the northeast, central and western mountain ranges.

The record of successful raids in recent months also is viewed as indicative of the growing effectiveness of the government's internal security forces. These have undergone sharp reorganization and modernization since the 1965 revolution, with the help of a U.S. public safety program under Alliance for Progress auspices. The program provides equipment and technical assistance from veteran American police and peace-keeping officers assigned here.

For the first time, authorities say, patrols are going into isolated rural and mountain areas, not only to seek outlaw breakers but to perform minimal "civic action" tasks. Every day from various stations throughout the country, gray police jeeps and trucks carrying from five to a dozen armed men fan out into forests and canyons with a simple order: "Patrols begin where the road ends."

These are members of a special rural corps called Department of Special Operations. Each team includes one medical practitioner who treats villagers, provides medicine and delivers babies. The patrols usually also include graduates of South American and U.S. police academies or of the counterinsurgency school in the Panama Canal Zone.

The patrols have smashed at least three attempts by far-leftists to open mountain guerrilla camps. Two members of the so-called "China cadre," Orlando Masara and Miguel Reyes Saldaña, were killed this year in clashes with national police in the mountains. The "China cadre" was composed of eight Dominicans who returned to the country, authorities said, after six months of intensive guerrilla training in Communist China. It was the nucleus of the guerrilla warfare effort by Dominican Marxists.

The seized documents, officials say, have enabled security agents to determine how the 14th of June body, for operational purposes, has divided Santo Domingo into six districts and the rest of the country into north, east, south and west regions.

Dr. Frank Moore, Pickaway County Health Commissioner, stated that from recent figures released by the U. S. Department of Public Health Services reports there are an estimated 1,000 Americans killed by accidental electric shock each year. A need exists, he said, to expand consumer education programs and for manufacturers to design safer appliances where necessary.

"It seems that people invariably find ways to become part of an electrical circuit," said Dr. Moore. "For example, a busy housewife, in order to save time, often plugs a hairdryer into an outlet, then attaches the dryer to her head, keeping it in operation while bathing, washing dishes or doing laundry. Because the human body is grounded under such conditions, an electrically unsafe appliance could cause injury or death."

The report further stated that an electric shock kit has been developed to help educate the PROGRESS SLOW, BUT SURE—Randy Hanes, 4, Denver, Colo., is one of the 15,000 to 20,000 American babies suffering birth defects after their pregnant mothers contracted German measles during the 1963-65 epidemic. Shown with his mother, Ingrid, Randy has been making slow, but sure progress. He was believed both deaf and blind when he was born, but a medical team at the March of Dimes Birth Defects Center at the University of Colorado in Denver discovered he had residual sight and hearing. His sight was improved by the removal of cataracts, and hearing aids helped with his hearing.

Dean Martin Turns 50, Gets Consolation Prize

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Dean Martin turned 50 this month, and NBC handed him a gift to add to the celebration: a television contract amounting to $34 million.

That is the estimated outlay for The Dean Martin Show during the next three years. The network eschewed the usual custom of renewing contracts only from year to year. After Dean's splendid showing in the ratings this season, NBC apparently felt he was good for three more.

How much of the $34 million will be take home pay for Martin is a matter for his lawyers and accountants. But the new contract will push him beyond his current annual income of $5 million, a total which already makes him the highest paid entertainer in America. And probably the world, since the Beatles have to split their millions four ways.

Martin observed his 50th birthday by going out to dinner with several of his children. His wife, Jeanne, had departed for Europe with a couple of the younger children; Dean will join her for a week as soon as he finishes "The Ambushers."

When the wine was offered for his approval in the highpriced restaurant where he was celebrating, Martin sprayed out the mouthful.

"You call this wine?" he demanded of the astonished maitre d'.

His capacity for drink is a source of delight to his audiences, not outrage. His role as a boozing chamber is well established both on and off the screen, though there is overwhelming evidence that he does not drink as much as people think.

This month marks another momentous anniversary in the life of Dean Martin. It was just 11 years ago that he walked out on the comedy partnership he shared with Jerry Lewis.

"The two most important events in my career," admits Dean, "were when I met Jerry and when I left him."

He was determined to go it alone—"I knew I could do something better than I had been doing with Jerry." But his first solo film was a bomb—"10,000 Bedrooms." After that, the offers didn't come.

Then his agency, M.C.A., lined up a deal for Martin to appear with Marlon Brando and Montgomery Clift in "The Young Lions." Fox was willing to pay him only $30,000 vs. the

"The Young Lions" was followed by "Rio Bravo" with John Wayne and "Some Came Running" with Sinatra. Dean Martin has seldom stopped running since then.

As with everything else, Dean Martin refuses to take his current prosperity seriously. Says he: "Back in Steubenville, Ohio, (his home town) they're still betting 6 to 5 I get the chair. They think this luck I'm having right now will blow over."

Highway Opens 57 Project Bid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bids on 57 projects with a construction value of more than $11.9 million were opened by the Ohio Department of Highways Tuesday. State estimates for the projects totaled more than $13.9 million.

Opening of bids was cancelled on the proposed $5 million U.S. 35 bypass of Gallipolis, because original plans did not incorporate new safety designs recently required by the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads. Officials said they did not know if plans can be revised in time to place the project for bids this year.

The majority of projects for which bids were opened involve resurfacing of roadways and parking areas in state parks and wildlife areas. Most were minor projects below the $50,000 figure, with some in the $100,000 cost category.

2,500 Steelworkers Return at Warren

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—Production was resumed by Copperweld Steel Co. here late Monday when 2,500 United Steelworkers returned to their jobs, ending a strike that began last Thursday.

Officials of USW Local 2243 ordered the men back to work and pickets were withdrawn Monday morning. The strike began when some employees of the 18-inch bar mill walked off their jobs in protest of safety conditions, a union official said. Company officials said they would not discuss the issue with union representatives until all employees were back on the job.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—Every once in a while President Johnson reveals, after 30 years in public life, his extreme sensitivity to criticism. He doesn't do it often, at least directly and in public.

But it happened again in a speech he gave Tuesday at the national convention of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at Baltimore, although why he did it isn't clear. The speech attached together a number of things he had on his mind.

In most of this hectic month, with the Middle East war and the United Nations debate, Johnson was crowded out of sight except for the few days covering his summit meeting with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

This didn't leave much room for his critics, but they squeezed in. After his first session with Kosygin last Friday, Johnson flew to a Democratic fund raising dinner in Los Angeles. About 7,000 anti-Vietnam war demonstrators, some bearded, some in sandals, milled around the hotel where he spoke.

Some of their signs said "Stop LBJ's war" and "LBJ is blood to Vietnamese—the blood of 10,000 American boys." A three-page advertisement in the Los Angeles Times bore the names of 8,000 "Dissenting Democrats" protesting the war.

Johnson, who had just spent hours with the Soviet leader discussing the possibility of bringing peace to both Vietnam and the Middle East, was hustled into the hotel through a back door.

And after Johnson's final meeting with Kosygin on Sunday, when both men said they had reached no agreement on Vietnam or the Middle East, pessimistic that much, if anything, had been accomplished.

Still unknown, of course, is whether the two men, although failing to agree on how to settle the two issues, agreed to work behind the scenes to bring a settlement about.

All this may have been high in Johnson's consciousness Tuesday when he talked to the Jaycees in Baltimore.

After talking about the progress of the American society—particularly under his leadership and administration—and about the problem of improving the life of mankind, he reminded his listeners: "Our problems are many, our solutions are few."

Then he hit the critics as the "cussers and the doubters." But this wasn't the only side to his talk. In many ways it sounded like a campaign speech with its list of accomplishments, although the campaign is more than a year away.

Taken as a whole, however, this expressed pride in American progress, with the numerous illustrations he gave, can be taken as part of Johnson's answer to his critics, indirectly. Johnson used this speech to explain once again that his session with Kosygin was not a lost weekend.

He said he and Kosygin "religiously, dedicatedly and determinedly" worked for two days in the world's interest at trying to understand the American and Soviet motivations and commitments.

No where has Johnson or Kosygin said they did not work out some understanding for working quietly to restore peace, through the various governments involved, in Vietnam and the Middle East.

In the sense of presentation, Tuesday's was one of Johnson's best speeches, perhaps mainly because for part of it he spoke

No reason was given for the cancellation.

Highway Opens 57 Project Bid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bids on 57 projects with a construction value of more than $11.9 million were opened by the Ohio Department of Highways Tuesday. State estimates for the projects totaled more than $13.9 million.

Opening of bids was cancelled on the proposed $5 million U.S. 35 bypass of Gallipolis, because original plans did not incorporate new safety designs recently required by the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads. Officials said they did not know if plans can be revised in time to place the project for bids this year.

The majority of projects for which bids were opened involve resurfacing of roadways and parking areas in state parks and wildlife areas. Most were minor projects below the $50,000 figure, with some in the $100,000 cost category.

Commemorative services on the flight deck of the Second Fleet carrier were observed by some 300 members of the Navy Fleet Reserve Association from the Norfolk area, and distinguished military and civic guests.

The services, honoring the memory of those who had died defending this country, were highlighted by the traditional three-volley salute by a firing squad, and a bugler sounding "Taps" as a helicopter wreath into the waters of the Atlantic.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Every once in a while President Johnson reveals, after 30 years in public life, his extreme sensitivity to criticism. He doesn't do it often, at least directly and in public.

But it happened again in a speech he gave Tuesday at the national convention of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at Baltimore, although why he did it isn't clear. The speech attached together a number of things he had on his mind.

In most of this hectic month, with the Middle East war and the United Nations debate, Johnson was crowded out of sight except for the few days covering his summit meeting with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

This didn't leave much room for his critics, but they squeezed in.

After his first session with Kosygin last Friday, Johnson flew to a Democratic fund raising dinner in Los Angeles. About 7,000 anti-Vietnam war demonstrators, some bearded, some in sandals, milled around the hotel where he spoke.

Some of their signs said "Stop LBJ's war" and "LBJ is blood to Vietnamese—the blood of 10,000 American boys." A three-page advertisement in the Los Angeles Times bore the names of 8,000 "Dissenting Democrats" protesting the war.

SPARED BY KILLER—Christine Schwab (left) and her cousin, Julie Braksiek, survived a night of terror after being kidnapped by a man who allegedly murdered Christine's mother and two men in Benton and Tama counties in eastern Iowa. The girls were found in the trunk of the suspect's car. Officials said the arrested suspect was Hubert B. McClelland, a Texan with a long criminal record. Victims were Mrs. Charles Schwab, 42; Leland Skoog, 55, and son Garith, 24.

Ashville News Report

Mrs. John Sabine — 983-7831

Joanie Pobst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gaylor (Dick) Pobst, returned to her home last week after being in the hospital since February.

To be able to bring their daughter home an air conditioner was needed. Due to the amount of expenses the family has, the Village of South Bloomfield with Russell Toole in charge, has taken over the project of the air conditioner. Mr. Toole purchased and installed the unit and is asking the wholesale price be paid for it. To raise funds the village is having a bake sale Saturday, July 1, at 9:30 a. m. in the K. of P. Hall in the room formerly occupied by the variety store of Baum's. Any contributions will be gratefully accepted.

Rev. William Sherertz of the Methodist Church announced to his congregation Sunday that the Pobst family is in continuous need of ice cubes. Any person having them may take them to the parsonage and they will in turn be taken to the Pobst home.

On Wednesday, June 4, a group of ladies from the Ashville Methodist WSCS traveled to the home of Mrs. E. R. Gregg in Zanesville.

After the singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" a delicious carry-in dinner was enjoyed by all. President, Mrs. Frank Morrison, conducted a business meeting. Mrs. Gregg was in charge of the worship service.

The president appointed several committees to serve when the society has their Silver Tea.

Those attending the meeting in the Gregg home were Stella Morrison, Edith Brown, Virgie Vause, Phoebe Engle, Charlotte Rife, Leona Sark, Clara Swayer, Jean Snyder, Mabel Roese, Helen Toole, Grace Courtright, Mae Borror, Ethel Siegel, Agnes Williams, Mary Bozman and Mona Morrison.

A gift was presented to Mrs. Gregg by the group.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Wilson, Randy, Janice, Judy and Nancy returned home Saturday after a three-week visit in California. They were guests in the home of Mr. Wilson's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. William Gordon.

Enroute to the west coast they visited with Mrs. Wilson's aunt and family in El Paso, Texas and enjoyed a trip into Mexico.

Mr. Ben Morrison remains in grave condition in University Hospital.

Three chartered buses loaded with members of the Teays

Valley Cadet Band, left the Ashville School Monday morning for a three-day trip to Michigan. The band members and their chaperones expected to visit many places of interest in the Detroit area. Those places included the Ford Museum, Greenfield Village, the Ford Production Plant, Belle Isle, the conservatory and aquarium, the General Motors Design Center, Hudson's Department Store, Cobo Hall and the Civic Auditorium.

All plans were made for the students by the band director, William Pangburn, and was co-sponsored by the Booster Clubs and the students. They returned home late Wednesday night.

Mr. Jack Irwin arrived in Ashville Sunday night from Florida to visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Irwin.

Mrs. Frank Baum, Mrs. Everett Peters, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hudson, Mrs. Clara Rihl and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Courtright attended the Homecoming Sunday of the Pythian Sister Home in Medina, Ohio.

The Past Chiefs Club of the Pythian Sisters held their annual dinner meeting at the Wardell Party Home last Thursday evening.

Those attending the affair were Mona Morrison, Madge Baum, Helen Cookson, Jean Schiff, Arlene Fortner, Shirley Rathburn, Helen Kuhlwein, Francine Peters, Ethel Siegel, Fannie Miller, Charlotte Rife, Carolyn Peters, Mary Costlow, Gladys Rush, Georgia Hoover, Mae Borror and Edith Hudson. A gift exchange was held following the dinner.

The Bastian Funeral Home ambulance made the following runs this past week: June 20, returned Joanie Pobst home from University Hospital; June 20, took Mr. Ed Bixler to Doctors Hospital, West; June 21, took Mrs. Grace Kinsell of Columbus to Doctors Hospital; June 24, took Richard Hedges to Berger Hospital, Circleville.

Arlene Fortner, most excellent chief of the Pythian Sisters, would like to remind all members to send their favorite recipes to her as soon as possible so that the printing of the cookbook may be started.

Jay Morrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Morrison of Circleville Avenue, arrived home Monday to spend a leave with his parents. Jay has been stationed in California with the Air Force.

Welfare Appropriation Likely To Cause Fight

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Welfare spending figured to touch off another big skirmish today as the Ohio Senate called for a vote on the two-year appropriations bill facing a Friday midnight deadline.

Not only were welfare amendments threatening to slow the measure on the Senate floor, but ranking House members indicated they were not too happy with changes made Monday night by the Senate Finance Committee.

A new formula for state payments to the Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) program has sparked the controversy which seems headed into a House Senate conference committee. There was talk Tuesday that this could lead to an unusual Friday session to get the big money bill enacted.

Under the law, the legislature must appropriate funds to finance state operations by the beginning of each two-year fiscal period — in this case July 1. Otherwise, the state will not have funds to meet payrolls and other obligations on time.

The $4.9 billion bill basically is the same now as it came out of the House although there were fund transfers and other minor changes in Senate Finance. The ADC amendment involves only $35 million of the staggering total but it includes a requirement for counties to come up with an additional $35 million if they want to pay ADC benefits at 100 per cent of the recommended standards. Otherwise, a "floor" of 83 1/2 per cent is established by the bill, raising payments from the present 78 per cent.

Sen. Oliver Osek D-27 Northfield, Summit, said he planned to offer an amendment under which the $35 million in earmarked state matching funds could be used along with a nominal amount from counties to raise benefits to slightly more than 90 per cent. His amendment lost in committee 7-4.

In other developments, Sen. Michael J. Maloney R-7 Cincinnati said his Ways and Means Committee will hold the first hearing tonight on the administration's $252 million tax increase-school bill.

C. Stanley Mechem of Nelsonville, chairman of the Ohio Tax Study Commission, said his group will meet Thursday in Columbus to continue its work that has led to many of the recent proposals for tax changes. Student loans and student jobholders were in the spotlight Tuesday as both houses held busy session marked by extensive floor debate.

The House approved a Senate bill expanding the state student loan program but amended it so that the state would guarantee only 90 per cent of loans instead of 100 per cent as proposed by the Senate. The state now guarantees 80 per cent.

Otherwise, the bill rises from $1,000 to $1,500 the annual limit for loans to graduate students. It boosts from $5,000 to $9,000 the limit for total loans outstanding. The annual limit for undergraduate students would remain unchanged at $1,000.

In addition, the measure would add vocational, technical, and "approved" business schools to the list of institutions borrowing students could attend.

Senators, over complaints that young girls need more protection from being used as "cheap labor" by employers, voted to liberalize time restrictions on employment of 16 and 17-year-olds.

Under the measure, they would be permitted to work until 11 p.m. instead of 10 p.m. on days preceding non-school days. Girls now restricted to 9 p.m. on weekdays could work on those days until 10 p.m., the same as boys now may do.

Dorothy Parker Leaves Estate To King, NAACP

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. says he was "deeply touched and gratified" by the fact that satirist Dorothy Parker left the bulk of her estate to him and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

He expressed his gratification in a statement in Atlanta.

"I am not referring to the monetary aspect at all," he added. "What impresses and inspires me is that one of America's most respected and warmly loved women of letters felt so committed to the civil rights movement that whatever she had she offered to it."

Miss Parker's will, filed Monday in New York, named King as the beneficiary.

A lawyer described the estate as "modest." Playwright Lillian Hellman was named executrix and trustee.

The lawyer, Paul O'Dwyer, who represents Miss Hellman, estimated the worth of the estate at "more than $100,000."

Miss Parker, who died here June 7 at the age of 73, was noted for her light and acidly humorous verse. She also was a short story writer and critic.

Joanie Pobst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gaylor (Dick) Pobst, returned to her home last week after being in the hospital since February.

To be able to bring their daughter home an air conditioner was needed. Due to the amount of expenses the family has, the Village of South Bloomfield with Russell Toole in charge, has taken over the project of the air conditioner. Mr. Toole purchased and installed the unit and is asking the wholesale price be paid for it. To raise funds the village is having a bake sale Saturday, July 1, at 9:30 a. m. in the K. of P. Hall in the room formerly occupied by the variety store of Bausum's. Any contributions will be gratefully accepted.

Rev. William Sherertz of the Methodist Church announced to his congregation Sunday that the Pobst family is in continuous need of ice cubes. Any person having them may take them to the parsonage and they will in turn be taken to the Pobst home.

On Wednesday, June 4, a group of ladies from the Ashville Methodist WSCS traveled to the home of Mrs. E. R. Gregg in Zanesville.

After the singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" a delicious carry-in dinner was enjoyed by all. President, Mrs. Frank Morrison, conducted a business meeting. Mrs. Gregg was in charge of the worship service.

The president appointed several committees to serve when the society has their Silver Tea.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Wilson, Randy, Janice, Judy and Nancy returned home Saturday after a three-week visit in California. They were guests in the home of Mr. Wilson's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. William Gordon.

Enroute to the west coast they visited with Mrs. Wilson's aunt and family in El Paso, Texas and enjoyed a trip into Mexico.

Mr. Ben Morrison remains in grave condition in University Hospital.

Three chartered buses loaded with members of the Teays

Welfare Appropriation Likely To Cause Fight

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Welfare spending figured to touch off another big skirmish today as the Ohio Senate called for a vote on the two-year appropriations bill facing a Friday midnight deadline.

Not only were welfare amendments threatening to slow the measure on the Senate floor, but ranking House members indicated they were not too happy with changes made Monday night by the Senate Finance Committee.

A new formula for state payments to the Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) program has sparked the controversy which seems headed into a House Senate conference committee. There was talk Tuesday that this could lead to an unusual Friday session to get the big money bill enacted.

Under the law, the legislature must appropriate funds to finance state operations by the beginning of each two-year fiscal period — in this case July 1. Otherwise, the state will not have funds to meet payrolls and other obligations on time.

The $4.9 billion bill basically is the same now as it came out of the House although there were fund transfers and other minor changes in Senate Finance. The ADC amendment involves only $35 million of the staggering total but it includes a requirement for counties to come up with an additional $35 million if they want to pay ADC benefits at 100 per cent of the recommended standards. Otherwise, a "floor" of 83 1/2 per cent is established by the bill, raising payments from the present 78 per cent.

Sen. Oliver Osek D-27 Northfield, Summit, said he planned to offer an amendment under which the $35 million in earmarked state matching funds could be used along with a nominal amount from counties to raise benefits to slightly more than 90 per cent. His amendment lost in committee 7-4.

In other developments, Sen. Michael J. Maloney R-7 Cincinnati said his Ways and Means Committee will hold the first hearing tonight on the administration's $252 million tax increase-school bill.

C. Stanley Mechem of Nelsonville, chairman of the Ohio Tax Study Commission, said his group will meet Thursday in Columbus to continue its work that has led to many of the recent proposals for tax changes. Student loans and student jobholders were in the spotlight Tuesday as both houses held busy session marked by extensive floor debate.

The House approved a Senate bill expanding the state student loan program but amended it so that the state would guarantee only 90 per cent of loans instead of 100 per cent as proposed by the Senate. The state now guarantees 80 per cent.

Otherwise, the bill rises from $1,000 to $1,500 the annual limit for loans to graduate students. It boosts from $5,000 to $9,000 the limit for total loans outstanding. The annual limit for undergraduate students would remain unchanged at $1,000.

In addition, the measure would add vocational, technical, and "approved" business schools to the list of institutions borrowing students could attend.

Senators, over complaints that young girls need more protection from being used as "cheap labor" by employers, voted to liberalize time restrictions on employment of 16 and 17-year-olds.

Under the measure, they would be permitted to work until 11 p.m. instead of 10 p.m. on days preceding non-school days. Girls now restricted to 9 p.m. on weekdays could work on those days until 10 p.m., the same as boys now may do.

Who Designed First Flag?

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
Central Press Association
Correspondent

WASHINGTON — As the nation observes the 190th anniversary of the American flag, its origin is still clouded in mystery.

Did Betsy Ross design the flag? All she did in 1776 was to use a design drawn by George Washington, changing only his six-pointed stars in the blue field to five pointed ones.

Was it then George Washington? He borrowed heavily from the British, whose flag consisted of six horizontal white stripes on a red field, plus the crosses of St. George and St.

Andrews. Washington substituted the stars for the crosses.

However, the flag Washington designed is not the flag flown today. Credit for its design goes to Samuel Chester Reid, one of the nation's outstanding naval heroes. His grave in Brooklyn remained unmarked until 1956, when a monument was erected to his memory.

Reid designed the 13 stripes to represent the original states and is also credited with the idea of adding a star for each new state in the Union. It was adopted by Congress April 4, 1818.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., has proposed an overhaul of the 1950 Uniform Code of Military Justice designed to provide improved legal services for men in the armed forces.

His bill would require that servicemen have lawyers when facing special courts-martial. This form of military trial is for charges less serious than those handled at general courts-martial.

Ervin wants guarantees of basic procedural due process for servicemen subject to undesirable discharge; a professional corps of lawyers in the Navy; and a system of intermediate courts made up of officers and civilians to act as appeal judges.

Ervin said that after young men are called upon to serve, "we are bound by conscience to offer them the best legal system we can devise to protect and judge them while they are in uniform."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agency for International Development and the Asia Foundation will sponsor a visit to the United States this summer and fall by 47 businesswomen from South Vietnam.

They will attend a six-week international marketing seminar at the Harvard School of Business. They will follow this with a tour of 12 American cities to see first-hand business and marketing practices.

The women have business interests ranging from import-export to small manufacturing enterprises.

Their tour in August and September will take them to New York; Buffalo, N.Y.; Cleveland, Dayton, Ohio; Louisville, Ky.; Chicago; Milwaukee; Denver; Asilomar, Calif.; and San Francisco.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 1,200 electrical workers in 13 West Coast shipyards are considering a work contract which, if approved by them, would end an eight-month dispute.

A presidential board said Tuesday negotiators reached agreement on contract terms for the Pacific Coast Shipbuilders Association and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, AFL-CIO. The improved wage terms also will mean and unwarred adjustment in pay for workers in other unions which have contracts with the shipbuilders.

The contract provides a 15-cent hourly pay hike immediately, an additional 5-cent raise next Jan. 1 plus a 4-cent per hour increase in pensions, health and welfare funds.

The electrical workers originally asked $4.07 hourly for journeymen, compared with the current average of $3.50. A Labor Department spokesman said the union request and the figures in the agreement can't be compared because of several factors.

Capital Footnotes

The Maritime Administration is urging the shipping industry and shipping unions to find permanent and summer jobs for young people.

President Johnson has made three job appointments: He picked Simon F. McHugh Jr., 29, of Washington to be a member of the Subversive Activities Control Board; Clifford L. Alexander, 33, a native of New York, to be chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission; and Rear Adm. Ralph L. Shifley, 56, a native of Mounds, Ill., to be a vice admiral and deputy chief of naval operations for logistics.

Capital Quote

"If the young leadership of our country supports us over the long hard pull that lies ahead—then the cussers and doubters will be relegated to the rear; the doers and builders will take up the front lines." — President Johnson, discussing dissension in the United States during his speech in Baltimore.

Historic Mansion To Be Torn Down

JEFFERSON, Ohio (AP) — The mansion of U.S. Sen. Benjamin F. Wade, who died in 1878, probably will be torn down to make room for a parking lot. The home, owned by the Jefferson Savings & Loan Co., has to be removed before the land can be used.

William Jamison, president of the Benjamin F. Wade Memorial Association, said Tuesday that a fund drive to move the house to another site failed.

Wade, acting vice president after Lincoln's assassination, missed becoming president when the House failed by one vote to impeach President Andrew Johnson.

Don't forget to fly your flag—it tells the world you're loyal Reid's design was made by his wife and flown about the United States Capitol April 12, 1818. Rep. Peter H. Wentworth of New York sponsored the resolution establishing a committee to redesign the then-existing flag. It passed by one vote.

The flag it replaced was adopted in 1793 and consisted of 15 stars and 15 stripes for the states then in the Union. This was the Star-Spangled Banner which inspired Francis Scott Key to write the national anthem. What's left of it is on display in the Smithsonian Institution.

The Reid flag has remained unchanged for 149 years, except for the addition of another star as a new state entered the Union. In Alaska and Hawaii brought the number to its present 50. There are many interesting bits of history connected with the flag. The nickname "Old Glory" was given the flag by a sailor, William Driver, of Salem, Mass. When presented the flag, on his 21st birthday, March 17, 1824, he is said to have exclaimed, "I name her Old Glory." This flag is preserved under glass at the Smithsonian Institution, the gift of the Driver family in 1922.

The Dutch were the first to fire a salute to the American flag, on Nov. 16, 1776, at Ft. Orange on St. Eustatius Island. One of the guns is in the Smithsonian Institution; another in the Naval Memorial Museum. This was the Great Union Flag, adopted by the Continental Army, Jan. 1, 1776.

as the first American flag.

It was this flag which the Continental Congress officially designated as the emblem of the new United States on June 14, 1776, in Philadelphia in a resolution which read, "Resolved, That the flag of the 13 United States be 13 stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be 13 stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

This was the flag Washington designed, whose stars were changed by Betsy Ross. It was first hoisted on Prospect Hill, near Somerville, Mass. Various forms of this flag were flown throughout the Revolutionary War.

As for the Betsy Ross story, it cannot be substantiated. It did not come to light until 1870, almost a century after the event it described, in a paper read by Mrs. Ross' grandson, William J. Canby, based on his recollection of a conversation he held with her in 1836, when he was 11 and she was 84.

No Danger of Wheat Buildup

There is no danger of wheat buildup in the U. S. in sight for 1967 even though this year's wheat crop is forecast at a record level, stated Paul T. Moore, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee of Pickaway County.

According to the June 1st crop estimate, winter wheat production this year will be about 17 per cent above last year, and 28 per cent above average. Estimated spring wheat production is up about 23 per cent above a year ago.

The chairman pointed out that even though the production of wheat for 1967 will total about 1.5 billion bushels, estimates indicate that domestic and export use will be at about the same figure.

The report further pointed out that not only does this mean that there should be no appreciable buildup of carryover supplies beyond current levels, but there should be no drop in market prices for the year.

THE market could break, particularly for some kinds of wheat, Moore warned, if instead of withholding wheat and marketing it in an orderly manner, farmers would flood the market at harvest time.

Wheat producers should consider taking advantage of price-support loans on wheat as a means of exercising control over market supplies and prices.

Most producers in the major wheat areas are eligible for price-support loans. Loans give farmers cash at harvest and at the same time permit farmers to retain control of their wheat so they can market it at a later date as they choose, the chairman explained.

He stated, however, there is always a risk in predicting market prices and that farmers themselves must decide whether it is to their advantage to market their wheat immediately or place it under price-support loan.

Manslaughter Trial Hears 2 Witnesses

CINCINNATI (AP) — Two teenagers have given virtually the same account of the street scuffle in which Jesse Woodman, a 25-year-old University of Cincinnati graduate student, was fatally injured.

The youths testified Tuesday as Larry D. Newton, 16; Ronald A. Perkins, 15, and Cranton E. White, 17, went on trial for first-degree manslaughter before Judge Frank M. Gusweiler of Hamilton County Common Pleas Court.

Woodman was knocked down the evening of March 23 while on his way from the UC campus. He died the following night.

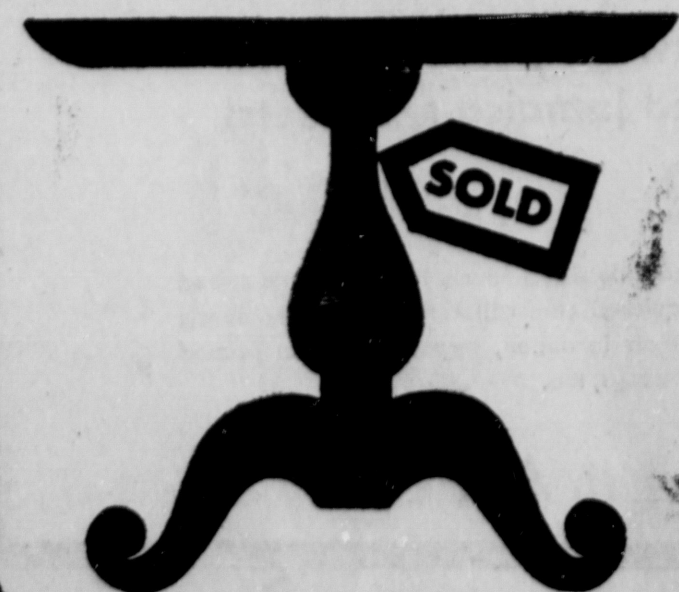

Both Patrick Geiger, 17, and Daniel Huber, 16, said they had just left a community center when they saw Woodman and the defendants standing in the street.

The youths testified that the defendants were in a semicircle around Woodman who had been backed into the street. They said they saw White kick at him and a moment later the graduate student fell after Perkins hit him.

Woodman, a native of Olmsted Falls, was working on a doctor's degree in tropical diseases. He was awarded the degree posthumously earlier this month.

Newton's attorney said the youth was drunk at the time of the attack. Attorneys for the other two youths said they will show their clients were trying to break up the fight.

The flag it replaced was adopted in 1793 and consisted of 15 stars and 15 stripes for the states then in the Union. This was the Star-Spangled Banner which inspired Francis Scott Key to write the national anthem. What's left of it is on display in the Smithsonian Institution.

The Reid flag has remained unchanged for 149 years, except for the addition of another star as a new state entered the Union. Alaska and Hawaii brought the number to its present 50. There are many interesting bits of history connected with the flag. The nickname "Old Glory" was given the flag by a sailor, William Driver, of Salem, Mass. When presented the flag, on his 21st birthday, March 17, 1824, he is said to have exclaimed, "I name her Old Glory." This flag is preserved under glass at the Smithsonian Institution, the gift of the Driver family in 1922.

The Dutch were the first to fly a salute to the American flag, on Nov. 16, 1776, at Ft. Orange on St. Eustatius Island. One of the guns in the Smithsonian Institution; another in the Naval Memorial Museum. This was the Great Union Flag, adopted by the Continental Army, Jan. 1, 1776, as the first American flag. It was this flag which the Continental Congress officially designated as the emblem of the new United States on June 14, 1776, in Philadelphia in a resolution which read, "Resolved, That the flag of the 13 United States be 13 stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be 13 stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

This was the flag Washington designed, whose stars were changed by Betsy Ross. It was first hoisted on Prospect Hill, near Somerville, Mass. Various forms of this flag were flown throughout the Revolutionary War.

As for the Betsy Ross story, it cannot be substantiated. It did not come to light until 1870, almost a century after the event it described, in a paper read by Mrs. Ross' grandson, William J. Canby, based on his recollection of a conversation he held with her in 1836, when he was 11 and she was 84.

No Danger of Wheat Buildup

There is no danger of wheat buildup in the U. S. in sight for 1967 even though this year's wheat crop is forecast at a record level, stated Paul T. Moore, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee of Pickaway County.

According to the June 1st crop estimate, winter wheat production this year will be about 17 per cent above last year, and 28 per cent above average. Estimated spring wheat production is up about 23 per cent above a year ago.

The chairman pointed out that even though the production of wheat for 1967 will total about 1.5 billion bushels, estimates indicate that domestic and export use will be at about the same figure.

The report further pointed out that not only does this mean that there should be no appreciable buildup of carryover supplies beyond current levels, but there should be no drop in market prices for the year.

THE market could break, particularly for some kinds of wheat, Moore warned, if instead of withholding wheat and marketing it in an orderly manner, farmers would flood the market at harvest time.

Wheat producers should consider taking advantage of price-support loans on wheat as a means of exercising control over market supplies and prices.

Most producers in the major wheat areas are eligible for price-support loans. Loans give farmers cash at harvest and at the same time permit farmers to retain control of their wheat so they can market it at a later date as they choose, the chairman explained.

He stated, however, there is always a risk in predicting market prices and that farmers themselves must decide whether it is to their advantage to market their wheat immediately or place it under price-support loan.

Manslaughter Trial Hears 2 Witnesses

CINCINNATI (AP)—Two teenagers have given virtually the same account of the street scuffle in which Jesse Woodman, a 25-year-old University of Cincinnati graduate student, was fatally injured.

The youths testified Tuesday as Larry D. Newton, 16; Ronald A. Perkins, 15, and Cranstons E. White, 17, went on trial for first-degree manslaughter before Judge Frank M. Gusweiler of Hamilton County Common Pleas Court.

Woodman was knocked down the evening of March 23 while on his way from the UC campus. He died the following night.

Both Patrick Geiger, 17, and Daniel Huber, 16, said they had just left a community center when they saw Woodman and the defendants standing in the street.

The youths testified that the defendants were in a semicircle around Woodman who had been backed into the street. They said they saw White kick at him and a moment later the graduate student fell after Perkins hit him.

Woodman, a native of Olmsted Falls, was working on a doctor's degree in tropical diseases. He was awarded the degree posthumously earlier this month.

Newton's attorney said the youth was drunk at the time of the attack. Attorneys for the other two youths said they will show their clients were trying to break up the fight.

Historic Mansion To Be Torn Down

JEFFERSON, Ohio (AP) — The mansion of U.S. Sen. Benjamin F. Wade, who died in 1878, probably will be torn down to make room for a parking lot. The home, owned by the Jefferson Savings & Loan Co., has to be removed before the land can be used.

William Jamison, president of the Benjamin F. Wade Memorial Association, said Tuesday that a fund drive to move the house to another site failed.

Wade, acting vice president after Lincoln's assassination, missed becoming president when the House failed by one vote to impeach President Andrew Johnson.

Hank Aaron Didn't Recall Date of Last Grand Slam

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Hank Aaron has hit more grand-slam homers than any other active major leaguer, but the four-run blasts come so rare even for the Atlanta slugger that he couldn't remember when he hit his 10th.

"I don't remember whether I hit one last year or not," Aaron said after his bases-loaded clout ignited the Braves' 13-5 conquest of Houston Tuesday night.

The third-inning shot, 423 feet into the center field stands, was the 11th grand-slam of Aaron's career, breaking him out of a

Insurance Men Down Knights

Marked by a seven-run first inning, Hummel and Plum coasted to a 13-8 Mosquito Loop win over K of C Tuesday.

The Insurance men took off with seven runs which held up until the third frame. Then the Knights tied it up. But the winners scored three in the fourth and three in the fifth to stay out of reach.

Tommie Starr was the big Hummel and Plum threat, combining with Robert Brown for the mound win and lacing a homer at the plate. The pitching duo walked 11, fanned 12 and gave up 11 hits.

Gary Combs had a pair of triples for the winners. Danny Bobbitt had two doubles and Robert Baranick had a two sack-er.

JERRY Large pitched for the Knights, going the distance. He issued six bases on balls, whiffed 15 and scattered 12 hits.

Bryan Edgington tripled and doubled for K of C. Jeff Carter connected for two doubles.

Savings Bank Ends Kochheiser Rally

A last-frame Kochheiser rally was cut off after two runs to give Savings Bank a 9-6 win in the Pony League Tuesday.

The Bankers marked first but Kochheiser took the lead in the third, 3-1. Savings Bank came back with four in its side of the frame and took a permanent lead. Kochheiser threatened in the last, marking two.

Harold Smith went all the way for Savings Bank, striking out 11 and walking eight. He scattered six hits.

Kent Wolfe was losing hurler, fanning seven, walking five and allowing eight hits.

SAVINGS Bank smacked five extra base hits. Jim Neal had a pair of triples and Mike Fowler also had a three sacker. Dave Gillis and Harold Smith each slashed doubles.

Robert Peters and Mark Davey doubled for Kochheiser.

Cincinnati Reds Lose 9-0 to L. A. Dodgers

CINCINNATI (AP) — They told Don Sutton to stop worrying about his delivery and just throw the ball. And, boy, is he throwing it.

The 22-year-old righthander made only 110 pitches Tuesday night as he led the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 9-0 victory over the faltering Cincinnati Reds.

John Roseboro drove in four runs with a pair of doubles and the Dodgers cracked a total of 13 hits.

"This was the best game I have pitched this year," Sutton said after his second shutout of the season. "It's hard to say when I was faster and harder to say why I was faster. I just don't know."

"I was told to forget the follow-through and forget about form and just throw the ball. It's been working."

Sutton struck out 11 Reds and gave up just two hits—a first-inning single by Floyd Robinson and a fifth-inning single through the box by Tommy Helms. Nobody else got on base.

"I wasn't trying for strikeouts. I was trying to stay relaxed and get ahead of every batter," explained Sutton.

The victory boosted Sutton's record to 5-9. It was the second time in a row the Reds have been shut out. The Reds have now lost 10 of their last 13 games, while the Dodgers are riding a four-game winning streak.

Sutton got plenty of help from his teammates. The Dodgers loaded the bases in the first on a single, a double and a walk. Starter Sammy Ellis (5-4) then walked in a run and Roseboro knocked in three runs with a double to right center.

The Los Angeles catcher doubled again with two on in the third, but Ron Fairly was thrown out at the plate after running all the way from first base.

Cleveland Indians Rout Detroit Tigers, 8-1

DETROIT (AP) — Tuesday night's opener of a three-game series in Detroit was a morale-booster for the Cleveland Indians and a morale-buster for the Tigers, who lost 8-1.

The lift for the Indians was the performance of Sam McDowell, who went all the way, fanned nine and walked only one in winning his first game in four weeks.

The blow to the Tigers was linked to Sam's success — the loss of the Tigers' best hitter, Al Kaline, with a fractured right hand.

Kaline was a McDowell strike-out victim twice, as was Detroit's other all-star representative, Bill Freehan. After his sixth-inning whiff, Kaline slammed his bat into the dugout rack, and his hand struck the rack.

McDowell, now 4 - 6, needed about 30 fewer pitches than his norm, using only 134. Detroit got its only run in the second inning. Willie Horton singled, moved to third on a wild pitch and ground out, and scored on Norm Cash's single.

With his first home run of the year in the eighth against reliever Hank Aguirre and a pair of doubles, Chico Salmon drove in half of the Indians' eight runs.

Singles by Fred Whitfield and Max Alvis opened a four-run second inning for the Indians. Whitfield scored on a wild pitch, and Alvis got to third when Freehan threw wild to Wilson at the plate. A walk to Duke Sims then set the stage for Salmon's two-run double, and Chico made it around later on a passed ball and Larry Brown's sacrifice.

Hahn Says Good Golf Is Easy

To Appear at PCC For Show Saturday

Paul Hahn, called the "Houdini of the Links," believes that good golf is easy and "there is no reason to complicate into a misery a game which can be a great pleasure for all participants."

His philosophy will be put into action 6 p. m. Saturday at Pickaway Country Club when he performs a one-hour routine of trick shots and instruction clinic.

Hahn states that all shots are hit with the same basic swing, whether made with a garden hose shaft, a swivel jointed shaft a club weighing two pounds or one six feet long.

The same swing is employed while standing with one foot on a folding chair, hitting a ball perched on a three-foot high tee or shooting with knees on the ground.

ALONG with having fun, Hahn hopes to show the average golfer the proper way to hit any kind of shot with the right swing. His routine has carried him around the world five times and to 41 countries. Recently he entertained U. S. troops in Vietnam.

Terry Diltz, professional at Pickaway Country Club, reminds everyone that the show is open to the public.

Stoutsville Wins In Tri-County

Stoutsville bested Laurelville, 14-6, in a Little League Major game played in Tri-County action Monday.

Steve Brungs and Norm McPherson pitched the win for Stoutsville, allowing two hits. Five walks were issued by the hurlers.

Don Roof was the losing pitcher, giving up seven free bases and 11 hits. He also contributed to his own cause by blasting a round-tripper and a single.

Steve Radcliff hit a home run and a single for Stoutsville and Bob Foster had two triples and a single for the winners.

In action Saturday Stoutsville beat Pickaway, 15-0, in a make-up game.

Hritz, McFadden Tie Low Gross with 37

Bud Hritz and Dean McFadden tied for low gross honors Tuesday at Pickaway Country Club Tuesday with matching one-over-par 37's during the Men's League.

Team 5 posted 19 points to take team laurels. Low net 33 was registered by Lou Marcey.

Still leading the field is Team 4.

Palmer, Nicklaus Are Canadian Open Favorites

MONTREAL (AP) — The Canadian Open Golf Championship, carrying a beefed up value of $200,000 and increased prestige, begins Thursday with Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus the co-favorites.

The site is the Montreal Municipal Course, 6,800-yard, par 71 layout and one of the very few municipal courses the pros see on their regular tour.

It has been refurbished and toughened for the tournament but remains flat and waterless and should pose few problems for the elite field.

"The course seems to be in good shape, but it could be better," said Jim Ferrier, a former PGA champ, long-time campaigner in this tournament and the last man to win consecutive Canadian titles, in 1950-51.

"There are still some bare spots on the greens, but they shouldn't cause any major problems. The biggest problems are going to be those little ridges and gullies," he said.

Ferrier was one of a handful of the top names to play a practice round Tuesday, with most of the major touring pros just checking in.

Among the late arrivals were Palmer, who claimed his first professional title in the Canadian Open in 1955; Billy Casper and Julius Brosos, each a two-time former U.S. Open champ; Nicklaus, the current U.S. Open king, and Kel Nagel, the former British Open champ.

Casper, Boros and young Frank Beard also rank as top challengers for the $30,000 first prize, with Nagel and Gary Player of South Africa heading the non-American foreign field. Don Massengale is the defending champion.

Al Balding and George Knudson are the major threats in a field of 26 Canadians. Balding, coming back from a shoulder operation, has been very impressive in recent outings. Knudson is the current Canadian top individual champion.

The field of 156 will cut to the low 70 and ties for the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday. If a playoff is necessary it will be over 18 holes Monday.

The final two rounds are scheduled for national television coverage in the United States and Canada. CBS-TV and CBC-TV will televise the matches 4-6 p.m. EDT, both Saturday and Sunday.

National Guard won its second in a row with a comeback win. Down 9-6 in the fifth, the Guards produced eight runs for the win.

Chet Iery Sr. pitched the win, allowing eight hits and walking one. Homers included Sandy Hill's for D Shift and Chet Iery Sr., John Good and Dave Iery's for National Guard.

"This was the best game I have pitched this year," Sutton said after his second shutout of the season. "It's hard to say when I was faster and harder to say why I was faster. I just don't know." "I was told to forget the follow-through and forget about form and just throw the ball. It's been working." Sutton struck out 11 Reds and gave up just two hits—a first-inning single by Floyd Robinson and a fifth-inning single through the box by Tommy Helms. Nobody else got on base. "I wasn't trying for strikeouts. I was trying to stay relaxed and get ahead of every batter," explained Sutton. The victory boosted Sutton's record to 5-9. It was the second time in a row the Reds have been shut out. The Reds have now lost 10 of their last 13 games, while the Dodgers are riding a four-game winning streak. Sutton got plenty of help from his teammates. The Dodgers loaded the bases in the first on a single, a double and a walk. Starter Sammy Ellis (5-4) then walked in a run and Roseboro knocked in three runs with a double to right center. The Los Angeles catcher doubled again with two on in the third, but Ron Fairly was thrown out at the plate after running all the way from first base.

Cleveland Indians Rout Detroit Tigers, 8-1

DETROIT (AP) — Tuesday night's opener of a three-game series in Detroit was a morale-booster for the Cleveland Indians and a morale-buster for the Tigers, who lost 8-1. The lift for the Indians was the performance of Sam McDowell, who went all the way, fanned nine and walked only one in winning his first game in four weeks. The blow to the Tigers was linked to Sam's success — the loss of the Tigers' best hitter, Al Kaline, with a fractured right hand. Kaline was a McDowell strike-out victim twice, as was Detroit's other all-star representative, Bill Freehan. After his sixth-inning whiff, Kaline slammed his bat into the dugout rack, and his hand struck the rack. McDowell, now 4 - 6, needed about 30 fewer pitches than his norm, using only 134. Detroit got its only run in the second inning. Willie Horton singled, moved to third on a wild pitch and ground out, and scored on Norm Cash's single. With his first home run of

Hahn Says Good Golf Is Easy

To Appear at PCC For Show Saturday

Paul Hahn, called the "Houdini of the Links," believes that good golf is easy and "there is no reason to complicate into a misery a game which can be a great pleasure for all participants." His philosophy will be put into action 6 p. m. Saturday at Pickaway Country Club when he performs a one-hour routine of trick shots and instruction clinic. Hahn states that all shots are hit with the same basic swing, whether made with a garden hose shaft, a swivel jointed shaft a club weighing two pounds or one six feet long. The same swing is employed while standing with one foot on a folding chair, hitting a ball perched on a three-foot high tee or shooting with knees on the ground.

ALONG with having fun, Hahn hopes to show the average golfer the proper way to hit any kind of shot with the right swing. His routine has carried him around the world five times and to 41 countries. Recently he entertained U. S. troops in Vietnam. Terry Diltz, professional at Pickaway Country Club, reminds everyone that the show is open to the public.

Stoutsville Wins In Tri-County

Stoutsville bested Laurelville, 14-6, in a Little League Major game played in Tri-County action Monday. Steve Brungs and Norm McPherson pitched the win for Stoutsville, allowing two hits. Five walks were issued by the hurlers. Don Roof was the losing pitcher, giving up seven free bases and 11 hits. He also contributed to his own cause by blasting a round-tripper and a single. Steve Radcliff hit a home run and a single for Stoutsville and Bob Foster had two triples and a single for the winners. In action Saturday Stoutsville beat Pickaway, 15-0, in a make-up game.

Hritz, McFadden Tie Low Gross with 37

Bud Hritz and Dean McFadden tied for low gross honors Tuesday at Pickaway Country Club Tuesday with matching one-over-par 37's during the Men's League. Team 5 posted 19 points to take team laurels. Low net 33 was registered by Lou Marcey. Still leading the field is Team 4.

Palmer, Nicklaus Are Canadian Open Favorites

MONTREAL (AP) — The Canadian Open Golf Championship, carrying a beefed up value of $200,000 and increased prestige, begins Thursday with Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus the co-favorites. The site is the Montreal Municipal Course, 6,800-yard, par 71 layout and one of the very few municipal courses the pros see on their regular tour. It has been refurbished and toughened for the tournament but remains flat and waterless and should pose few problems for the elite field. "The course seems to be in good shape, but it could be better," said Jim Ferrier, a former PGA champ, long-time campaigner in this tournament and the last man to win consecutive Canadian titles, in 1950-51. "There are still some bare spots on the greens, but they shouldn't cause any major problems. The biggest problems are going to be those little ridges and gullies," he said.

K of C, Guard Register Wins

Knights of Columbus bombed 28 hits in a 26-6 swamping of Jaycees and National Guard, rallied past D Shift, 14-9 Tuesday in Slow Pitch Softball. K of C included seven homers in its hitting barrage. The Knights stand 2-0 at the top of the loop. National Guard won its second in a row with a comeback win. Down 9-6 in the fifth, the Guards produced eight runs for the win. Chet Iery Sr. pitched the win, allowing eight hits and walking one. Homers included Sandy Hill's for D Shift and Chet Iery Sr., John Good and Dave Iery's for National Guard.

New York Takes Pittsburgh 5-2

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Before the game, the Pittsburgh Pirates put on an act for Walter Matthau and Jack Lemmon. During the game, they put on an act worthy of Abbott and Costello.

The first act proved more profitable. At least several of the Pirates earned $100 each for it. They didn't get anything for the second act except a lot of confusion and a 5-2 loss to the New York Mets.

In the pre-game festivities, the Pirates and Mets acted out a triple play for a scene in the movie, "The Odd Couple," which stars Matthau as a sloppy sports writer and Lemmon as his roommate who is obsessed with cleanliness.

In the scene, Bill Mazeroski—subbing for Roberto Clemente who rejected the $100 role—hits into the triple play.

In the game, the bizarre festivities centered around the part of the Pirate line-up that followed Mazeroski, the No. 5 hitter in the batting order.

In less than National League games San Francisco blanked St. Louis 6-0, Atlanta clobbered Houston 13-5, Los Angeles whipped Cincinnati 9-0 and Philadelphia stopped Chicago 4-2.

In the American League Chicago beat Baltimore 5-0, Boston edged Minnesota 3-2, Cleveland thumped Detroit 8-1, Kansas City walloped New York 10-2 before losing 2-1 and Washington defeated California 9-4.

The odd incident in the Pirate-Met game came in the third inning after Jose Pagan cut the New York lead to 5-2 with a two-run double. As Jim Pagliarone stepped into the batter's box, Mets Manager Wes Westrum emerged from the dugout.

"That man batted out of turn," Westrum told plate umpire Al Barlick.

"He did?" Barlick asked, somewhat surprised.

"Yes," Westrum coolly replied.

Indeed Pagan had batted out of turn. So had Gene Alley, who preceded Pagan with the second out in the inning.

As the puzzle became unraveled, the participants learned that in the official line-up handed Barlick and Westrum before the game, Pagan was listed as the sixth batter and Alley the seventh. But in the line-up listed on the scoreboard, Alley was No. 6 and Pagan No. 7.

And, unfortunately for the Pirates, they were following the scoreboard even though the correct, official line-up was posted in their dugout.

How did the scoreboard happen to be wrong? It seems a Pirate broadcaster asked Walker before the game for his line-up, and Walker reeled off—as it turned out, incorrectly—a batting order with Pagan following Alley.

"There were six million people asking me for my line-up," Walker said afterward. "I'll never give it out that way again."

The broadcaster, in the course of conversation, relayed the line-up to the man responsible for putting it on the scoreboard. So there it was.

Met coach Sheriff Robinson caught the discrepancy, but Westrum let it go through the first two innings when the reversal of Alley and Pagan did the Mets no harm.

The turn of events enabled the Mets to hold onto the victory behind a four-run first-inning outburst, capped by Ron Swoboda's three-run homer.

Mike McCormick scattered seven hits as San Francisco cooled off St. Louis, at least temporarily. Hal Lanier struck the big blow, a two-run double with the bases loaded in the fifth inning.

Hank Aaron smashed his 19th and 20th homers, a grand slam and a two-run blast, for Atlanta. Houston starter Wade Blasingame, a Brave until recently, walked three men before Aaron connected in the third.

Don Sutton set down Cincinnati on two hits and received solid support from batterymate John Roseboro, who drove in four runs with a pair of doubles.

The Phillies snapped Chicago's winning streak at seven games. Don Lock's three-run homer in the third did the heavy damage to the Cubs, and Rick Wise stymied them on three hits before needing relief help from Dick Hall in the seventh.

Views on TV-Radio

By GENE HANDSAKER
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The man who was founding chairman of the Emmy-awarding Television Academy 21 years ago now has a new idea.

A "National Academy of Television Receiver Owners of America."

Syd Cassyd sees it as a service organization comparable to an automobile club. But instead of promoting better highways for motorists, it would, he says: "Try to implement the laws of Congress that say television shall be in the public interest, convenience and necessity, and — Provide a viewers' voice directed toward sponsors and programming."

Cassyd, smiling, graying and 58, is a Hollywood trade-magazine writer who in 1950 was president of the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences.

In his cluttered office a block from Hollywood and Vine he argued: "Receiver manufacturers are organized, service technicians are organized, broadcasters are organized. Why shouldn't owners of the 53 million receivers be organized?"

"The question is, is the public getting the maximum benefit out of its investment of $200 to $1,000 in a set? How can it best express itself as to what it wants?"

"Supposedly it is represented by the seven federal communications commissioners. But with 200,000 stations to police—shortwave, fire, police, airplane, ship, ham — the commissioners are overworked."

"And with 50 per cent of our senators and even our President having an interest in broadcasting, it has become private interest, not public."

If the 700 U.S. TV stations grossing $2 billion a year were operated fully in public interest, convenience and necessity, Cassyd claimed, "there would be no need for educational TV channels. A broadcasting channel is no different in U.S. laws from the Grand Canyon or Yosemite National Park, which are operated for the public."

He sees the proposed set-owners' academy participating in FCC hearings on station license renewals and taking a Better Business Bureau approach to color-TV servicing. "And why should we be locked into a 525-line-per-inch TV system? The French have 625 lines. Maybe 1,000 lines would be better."

As for programming: "Thirteen thousand movie features have been on the air, some as many as 30 times a year. Is this in the public interest?"

Cassyd said his plan "does not presuppose broadcasters are not doing a wonderful job. But is it the maximum job?"

He said incorporation papers, with himself as one of four incorporators, will be filed in Washington within a month.

Local Woman Leaves On Journey to Vietnam

By STEVE JONES
Herald Staff Writer

Sharon Sharrett, who returned from a seven month stay in India as an International Foreign Youth Exchange student a little over a year ago, is bound for Asia again.

This time the petite Logan Elm graduate is headed for Vietnam as a member of the International Voluntary Service Inc.

Sharon is the daughter of Harry Sharrett, a Pickaway Twp. farmer, and the late Anna Sharrett. Born in Pickaway Twp., she was the youngest member of a family of four boys and two girls.

She attended Pickaway Twp. School and graduated from Logan Elm in 1961. A graduate of St. Rita's School of Nursing in Lima, she also attended Ohio University at Athens.

DURING the past winter while she was a nurse at George Washington University Hospital in Washington, D. C., she took some courses at the University, including French, which many of the educated Vietnamese speak.

The International Voluntary Service Inc. is a private organization which has been in existence since 1953. The organization might almost be called the forerunner of the Peace Corps according to Sharon.

Although a private service, most of the money for its operation comes from federal funds. It performs a service very similar to the Peace Corps, working with the poverty-stricken people, primarily in Asia and Africa.

An agriculturally oriented program, it has recently broadened the scope of its work to include education and community development.

LEAVES FOR VIETNAM — Sharon Sharrett receives help from her father, Harry, in loading her baggage as she prepared to leave on a trip which will eventually take her to Vietnam. She will be in Washington until July 6 when she goes to the Philippines and on to Asia.

Sharon will be associated with the community development phase of the IVS. She will be working for the most part with refugee people who have lost their homes because of the war, flood or other disaster.

She is not quite sure what to expect in the way of duties, but she feels her primary function will be in the area of health education and sanitation.

She will work with youth clubs as well as with selected individuals.

Assigned to Vietnam for two years, she is one of a team of 35 IVS personnel. Most of her co-workers are specialists in their field with several years of study and experience behind them.

Hours Listed By Chamber's Work Service

The summer employment service of the Chamber of Commerce has reduced its office hours to 8 to 10 a. m. Monday through Friday, according to Wayne E. Smith, chairman of the service.

Smith said the hours have been reduced because many students have already found summer jobs and most of those interested in employment have registered with the service.

By keeping the service open two hours daily, employers can call for student assistance regularly, Smith said. The phone number is 474-3144, Extension 59.

"We are still receiving an occasional request for full-time summer people," Smith said, "and requests for part-time work should continue through the summer."

Students can still register with the service by going to the General Electric Plant on E. Ohio St., between 8 and 10 a. m. Monday through Friday.

Auto Mishap Results in Injury

Head and neck injuries were the results of a one-car mishap investigated by the Sheriff's Dept. Tuesday at 7:30 p. m.

According to the report on file in the Sheriff's office, Joe Spires, 27, Route 1, Frankfort, lost control of his auto on Route 138.

Spires told officers he approached the curve in the road at 65 mph and hit the berm. The car went out of control, rolled over three times and came to rest on the wheels.

A passenger in the car, Penny C. Spires, 23, Route 1, Frankfort, was referred to her family doctor with head and neck injuries. Spires was cited on a charge of wreckless operation.

Sharon left Port Columbus Sunday and flew to Washington where she will take orientation courses until July 6. She leaves then for the Philippines where she will go through another 20 day orientation period.

Her itinerary to Vietnam will include stops in Tokyo and Hong Kong. In Saigon, Sharon will learn the language of the people of the country.

She pointed out that it would be much easier than in India where many languages and dialects were spoken. In Vietnam there is one language and a few dialects.

A province of France for years, French is a fairly common language in the country.

WAR TORN Vietnam was not Sharon's first choice of a location, but she takes her placement there with a philosophic attitude.

"I'd rather there were no war in the country. But there is and there is nothing I can do about it," she explains.

"IVS does not have a reputation for a high mortality rate. I believe there has been only one civilian associated with the service who has perished."

"The war will naturally limit my movement within the country. But the IVS is a civilian agency and its movements and personnel are not governed by the military."

As an IVS worker, Sharon will receive a month's vacation each of the two years she will be in Vietnam. During one of her vacation periods she plans to return to India for a visit in some of the communities where she lived as an International Foreign Youth Exchange student.

Her visit in India led her to her present position. And she plans to make a career of foreign service.

Letter To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE — We welcome letters to the editor. In order to be considered for publication, they must bear the correct name and address of the writer. Anonymous letters and those signed with the request that signatures be withheld will not be accepted for publication. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

Dear Editor:

It was implied in a letter to the editor written by Mr. C. D. Bennett directed to the parents and patrons of the Teays Valley School District (printed in The Circleville Herald and The Pickaway County News) that teachers in the Teays Valley School District were more interested in their own personal welfare than the welfare of the students. I will not speak for my fellow teachers, but I will speak for myself. I am concerned about the children in the Teays Valley School District. I would like to point out some (not all) of the weaknesses in Teays Valley School District's educational system.

1. I am concerned that not all teachers within our district have their degrees to teach. The argument is that experience will make just as good a teacher as a degree. Personally, I think it takes both. A degreed teacher becomes better with experience and an experienced teacher would be better if he completed his formal training to receive his bachelor's degree.

2. I am concerned that teachers are not required or do not go back to college periodically for refresher courses. Many school districts require their teachers to get six semester hours of training every five years. Some of the teachers in Teays Valley's system have not gone back to college for additional training since they terminated their college training. To compare this to another profession, I'm wondering how many of us would want to go to a doctor who had not kept abreast of medical advances. I wouldn't think a parent would want his child to sit in a classroom 180 days a year, 6 hours a day, and not have a well trained, updated teacher instilling ideas into the child's mind.

3. It concerns me that other schools offer foreign languages, advanced sciences such as geology, astronomy, physiology, chemistry, and physics to their elementary and junior high school students. The children in the Teays Valley School District must compete at the college level with children who have had this advanced training. I will not say your children will fail. Past experience has shown that through the child's determination to succeed, he does. But your school system could help him succeed if the curriculum could be revised. And I say IF because curriculum revision would mean hiring more teachers and this means more money.

4. Other school systems provide specified technical training for their students. How many of you readers have graduated from high school and suddenly realized you did not really know how to do anything? Those students who do not plan to go to college or get some additional training are in this "I don't know how to do anything" category. Our school system could remedy this. But, it takes money and action!

5. Let me list without detail some things other schools (even in this county) have that Teays Valley School District does not have:

1. a full time high school principal; 2. a full time assistant high school principal; 3. full time elementary guidance counselors; 4. elementary libraries; 5. certified elementary librarians; 6. updated text books; 7. elementary classrooms that are now crowded; 8. in-service training programs for teachers; 9. elementary school buildings that are in good repair.

I have not begun to explain all the areas in Teays Valley's program that need revision. Nor is this my purpose. I just want to clarify for the public that I, as a teacher, am interested in the welfare of Teays Valley's children. I would hazard a guess that I am speaking for all the teachers in the Teays Valley School District.

I am leaving Teays Valley because I do not want to get into the rut of accepting second best and believing it is best, of not getting additional training, of not always working to improve my profession. Teachers are no longer servants of the public. They are or should be trained professionals. These professionals have the futures of your children in their hands. If you, the people in the Teays Valley School district, accept anyone but a trained professional to educate your child, you are seriously jeopardizing his future.

In this quarrel over money, it is not you, the executive head, the school board, or the teachers who will be hurt. It is your child.

It is your child who is being cheated out of a quality education, and a poor education is

Letter To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE — We welcome letters to the editor. In order to be considered for publication, they must bear the correct name and address of the writer. Anonymous letters and those signed with the request that signatures be withheld will not be accepted for publication. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

Dear Editor:

It was implied in a letter to the editor written by Mr. C. D. Bennett directed to the parents and patrons of the Teays Valley School District (printed in The Circleville Herald and The Pickaway County News) that teachers in the Teays Valley School District were more interested in their own personal welfare than the welfare of the students. I will not speak for my fellow teachers, but I will speak for myself. I am concerned about the children in the Teays Valley School District. I would like to point out some (not all) of the weaknesses in Teays Valley School District's educational system.

1. I am concerned that not all teachers within our district have their degrees to teach. The argument is that experience will make just as good a teacher as a degree. Personally, I think it takes both. A degree teacher becomes better with experience and an experienced teacher would be better if he completed his formal training to receive his bachelor's degree.

2. I am concerned that teachers are not required or do not go back to college periodically for refresher courses. Many school districts require their teachers to get six semester hours of training every five years. Some of the teachers in Teays Valley's system have not gone back to college for additional training since they terminated their college training. To compare this to another profession, I'm wondering how many of us would want to go to a doctor who had not kept abreast of medical advances. I wouldn't think a parent would want his child to sit in a classroom 180 days a year, 6 hours a day, and not have a well trained, updated teacher instilling ideas into the child's mind.

3. It concerns me that other schools offer foreign languages, advanced sciences such as geology, astronomy, physiology, chemistry, and physics to their elementary and junior high school students. The children in the Teays Valley School District must compete at the college level with children who have had this advanced training. I will not say your children will fail. Past experience has shown that through the child's determination to succeed, he does. But your school system could help him succeed if the curriculum could be revised.

4. Other school systems provide specified technical training for their students. How many of you readers have graduated from high school and suddenly realized you did not really know how to do anything? Those students who do not plan to go to college or get some additional training are in this "I don't know how to do anything" category. Our school system could remedy this. But, it takes money and action!

5. Let me list without detail some things other schools (even in this county) have that Teays Valley School District does not have:

1. a full time high school principal;
2. a full time assistant high school principal;
3. full time elementary guidance counselors;
4. elementary libraries;
5. certified elementary librarians;
6. updated text books;
7. elementary classrooms that are now crowded;
8. in-service training programs for teachers;
9. elementary school buildings that are in good repair.

I have not begun to explain all the areas in Teays Valley's program that need revision. Nor is this my purpose. I just want to clarify for the public that I, as a teacher, am interested in the welfare of Teays Valley's children. I would hazard a guess that I am speaking for all the teachers in the Teays Valley School District.

I am leaving Teays Valley because I do not want to get into the rut of accepting second best and believing it is best, of not getting additional training, of not always working to improving my profession. Teachers are no longer servants of the public. They are or should be trained professionals. These professionals have the futures of your children in their hands.

If you, the people in the Teays Valley School District, accept anyone but a trained professional to educate your child, you are seriously jeopardizing his future.

In this quarrel over money, it is not you, the executive head, the school board, or the teachers who will be hurt. It is your child.

It is your child who is being cheated out of a quality education, and a poor education is
